MALE STUDENT NURSES

We can supply coats, jackets and uniforms distinct from Surgeons and Doctors for your Male Student Nurses. Samples and prices supplied on application.

BANDAGE CLOTHS

'Stethos' Bandage Cloths constitute a range of specialities answering every hospital need. The materials for orthopaedic work have been highly commended. Quality B.M. 14 'Book Muslin' is commended in a standard work on dislocations and fractures. Every other type of bandage cloth supplied in highest quality.

HOSPITAL BEDDING AND TEXTILES

'Stethos' Bedding equipment has long established a reputation for its attention to modern ideas. 'Stethos' Bedding equipment, including sheets, sheetings, pillows, towels, towelling, blankets, &c., is used in the largest hospitals and stands severest tests of wear and endurance. Nulux Mattresses specially recommended for hospital beds—comfort with economy.

SHOES

'Stethos' shoes represent comfort for the nurse on duty. They are specially designed and made for J. H. Bounds to a specification drawn up to meet a nurse's needs. Special arch supports and shock-proof cuban heels safeguard the feet from fatigue and strain, but to this is added smartness and style. Supplied in black and brown.

NURSING UNIFORMS

The Nurse's uniform is a symbol of what she stands for and the hospital she serves. That it should be well made and durable and designed with meticulous accuracy are points of honour. 'Stethos' uniforms are not the products of mass methods but of highly skilled workers, The 'Stethos' guarantee goes with each uniform. Apron cloths and dress materials are fully shrunk.

INMATES' AND PATIENTS' CLOTHING

A large variety of inmates' and patients' clothing can be supplied in a wide range of qualities and sizes. Please ask for details of children's dresses, knickers, patients' shirts, dresses, underwear, nightwear, etc.

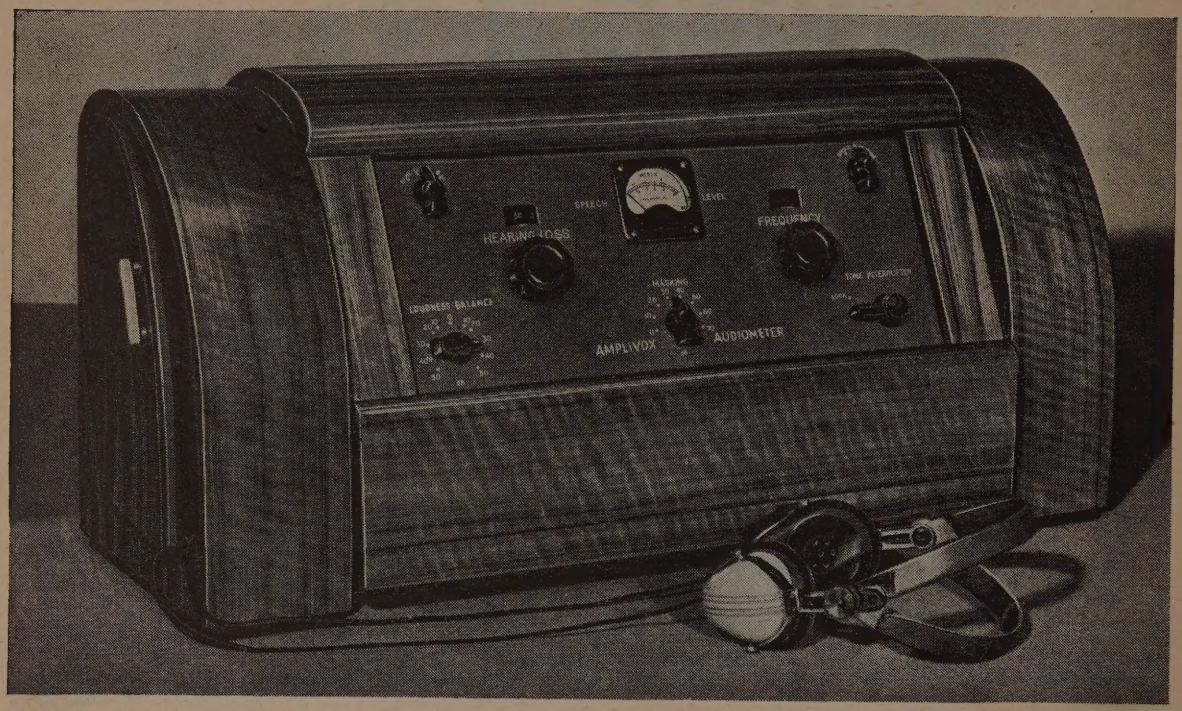
THE AMPLIVOX AUDIOMETER



The Basic Instrument of Modern Otology

NEW Tests Now Possible

Speech-loss measurement in decibels now obtainable through dynamic microphone and SPEECH INPUT METER.

Loudness balance control gives measurement of the recruitment factor.

Input for group-test equipment and gramophone.

Consistent Accuracy of Results

Eleven exact test frequencies 125 - 12000 c.p.s.

Voltage compensation ensures that signal intensity does not vary should mains voltage do so.

Calibrated Masking Tone

Masking intensity varies equally with normal hearing acuity over range 125 - 4,000 c.p.s., permitting accurate masking control. Calibrated in decibels.

Simplicity of Operation

Twin matched headphones (on double headband) for all air conduction tests; bone conductor on single headband.

Hearing Loss dial calibrated in 5 dB steps from — 10 dB to + 100 dB.

Same figures on dial are read for air and bone conduction, and for ALL frequencies.

Full details are available from the manufacturer, who will gladly arrange demonstrations, if required.

Have You Considered the Merits of SANTRON the New Germicide ?..

Gynæcology and Midwifery

Santron contains a higher percentage of pure potash castor oil soap, and differs from most germicides in that an additional soap solution is not required. It is clean and pleasant to use. When necessary may be applied in undiluted form.

For Hospitals

The essential oils do not produce any overpowering odour. The standard Rideal Walker Test proves the strength on the Typhoid Baccillus to be five times stronger than pure Phenol. Even under the most unfavourable conditions Medical research workers in a London Teaching Hospital have shown that Santron exerts its antiseptic power in a high degree. It is available to Hospitals and Public Institutions in bulk quantities at an amazingly low price.

In General Practice

For cleansing cuts and wounds, sterilization of hands and instruments, Santron is efficient and convenient. Non-poisonous, non-corrosive and harmless to linen or delicate materials.

In the Home

Santron is available to the public through all chemists, and may be indicated for all purposes of personal hygiene, including gargling, as a deodorant, and general disinfecting of sick rooms, and treatment of clothes.

Santron is manufactured solely by Rendells, a name known to the Medical Profession throughout the world for over 50 years. Like all other Rendell Products, it is made under the same scrupulous conditions and control of an independent Medical Board.

Santron is being used by many General and Women's Hospitals, Public Institutions and Factories throughout the Country.

Full Medical literature and samples supplied on application.

SUPPORT with COMFORT

Abdominal Ptosis in all its forms can be reliably treated by the Curtis Abdominal Support No. 1. It gives direct anterior-posterior pressure but has no undue constricting effect on the lower abdomen and assures complete freedom of hip movement; in other words, it gives gentle pressure and firm support only where it is needed. Lasting comfort in wear is assured at all times by the high standard of workmanship and finish. This is one of the many types of Curtis Products, whose use is recommended by the Medical Profession.

The "TRAXATOR"

The TRAXATOR is invaluable in the treatment of rheumatism and all forms of muscular infiltrations, mollities of scars and wherever there is a need to stimulate the blood circulation and increase skin temperature.

The TRAXATOR has proved its value in two years of clinical research in London hospitals.

The TRAXATOR accomplishes in one-third of the time the results achieved by ordinary massage, thus cutting down the number of hospital visits by each patient.

The TRAXATOR treats three patients at one and the same time!

The TRAXATOR film and descriptive brochure will inform you of all details. Please apply to:—

CLASSIFIED INDEX OF SUPPLIES AND SERVICE

THE LATE VISCOUNT SANKEY, P.C.

WE have to record with the deepest regret the death of Lord Sankey earlier this year. His name will ever be remembered in the world of hospital affairs by reason of the Report on Hospital Services issued in 1937 after two years' work by a Commission, of which he was Chairman, appointed by the British Hospitals Association.

This Commission was, by its terms of reference :

> " To take into consideration the present position of the Voluntary Hospitals of the country ; to enquire whether in view of recent legislative and social developments it is desirable that any steps should be taken to promote their interests, develop their policy and safeguard their future, and to frame such recommendations as may be thought expedient and acceptable."

The feature which distinguished this Report from any which had gone before was its advocacy of the principles of interworking between hospitals and the planning of co-ordinated hospital service over regional areas. These were bold propositions to make at a time when the voluntary hospital system was not threatened by financial stringency, and the greatest pride of the voluntary hospitals individually was their complete autonomy and independence.

In order to implement the more important of the Commission's recommendations the Association formed a Provisional Central Council, the work of which was continued by the Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust, especially as regards the furtherance of co-operation between the voluntary and the local authority hospitals on a regional basis.

In recognition of his services to the Voluntary Hospitals, Lord Sankey was appointed Vice President of the British Hospitals Association in 1937.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

LAST year it seemed that the Hospitals Year Book might come to an untimely end. The production of this further issue however was encouraged by tributes contained in the last edition as well as by the feeling that it was imperative in this year 1948—when the old gives place to the new—that there should be an " Annual Record of the Hospitals."

THE CONTENT OF THE BOOK

This edition records this meeting-point since it not only contains directories of the Voluntary, Municipal and Mental Hospitals all as at 4th July ; but in additional directories records these same hospitals as State institutions, grouped in Regions and under the control of Boards of Governors or Hospital Management Committees in so far as they are teaching or non-teaching hospitals ; and under Boards of Management in Scotland. These directories of hospitals in the old and new order are cross indexed so that those who are not yet familiar with the new groupings and designations can still find their way by referring to a particular hospital under its old status and so to its place in the new order.

It is realised that there are gaps in the records of the new service. Many of the administrative officers had not been appointed to the new Boards and Committees at the time of going to press ; nor in all cases had the offices of the new Boards or Committees been determined.

The Year Book has always included statistics relating to the work and finance of the Voluntary Hospitals, though during the war period it was not found possible to publish these at yearly intervals. To make good this time lag, the present edition includes figures for the years 1945 and 1946. Owing to the limitations of time, some of the detailed tables for 1946 have had to be omitted ; and the figures for 1945 have been restricted to totals only so as to enable overall comparison.

Most of the work of compiling the directories and statistics is dependent on the hospitals themselves furnishing the necessary information. This time, as never before, all the hospital authorities have responded in quite exceptional measure. Thanks are due to all of them for their wholehearted co-operation which has so much eased the work of the staff in the preparation of a second Year Book within twelve months.

This year's edition includes short surveys of the three Health Service Acts—for England and Wales : for Scotland : and for Northern Ireland—briefly enumerating their provisions in respect of the hospital and related services, and showing how each differs from the others.

There are also a number of articles on special subjects connected with the new service, contributed by persons each able to speak with authority in his own sphere. Some are factual, some speculative, but all are stimulating to thought on the subjects with which they deal.

In addition, some of the more important current memoranda are reprinted as likely to have a direct or continuing influence in the various fields of the hospital service.

This twelve-month period 1947-1948 presents its difficulties to any reviewer because of the many aspects from which its activities can be regarded. For those who continued to manage the hospitals up to the 5th July, it was a period of waiting not unmixed with suspense and anxiety. For those upon whom fell the responsibility for the new plan it was a period of great strain aggravated by the fact that the programme of events could not be adhered to, and some of the arrangements requisite on the 5th July were not in fact completed so far as England and Wales were concerned by that date ; in Scotland, no doubt due to the fact that the area covered was smaller and the position was not rendered quite so intricate under the Scottish Act, the various stages were completed before the appointed day.

In addition to all the activity connected with the reconstruction and administration of the health and hospital services the year brought a keen sense of disappointment when it was realised that there would be room for but very few of the past managers on the newCommittees and Boards, and that associations of many years would thus be broken unless some fresh means could be found for linking them with the hospitals they had so faithfully served in the past. Initial disappointment was however succeeded by a growing realisation that if the needs of the patient were still to be served as they must be, the obligation still rested on all, either in their newly appointed sphere or outside it, to do everything they could to help to ensure the success of one of the greatest adventures in social history in this country.

The difficulties of the actual change over must have been fully appreciated by those upon whom they have fallen hardest, and the absence of comment or criticism—which admittedly would be premature—is nevertheless also a mark of restraint and understanding. The opportunity to build a new service, which like the old can serve as an example for the world, is unparalleled ; but if that opportunity is to be grasped, it will not suffice to avoid the mistakes of the past ; it will be necessary also by anticipation to obviate new dangers.

For example, the risk of remote control is by no means yet a thing of the past, notwithstanding that the position has been considerably safeguarded by the final form of the Act and by certain subsequent Regulations, which imposed a very considerable measure of responsibility on the new Hospital Management Committees. Experience will show whether the action taken by many Hospital Management Committees in appointing a House Committee for each of the individual hospitals within their group will not wisely be followed by those who initially have not taken that step. Again, it remains to be seen whether conditions will conduce to the administrator of the individual hospital having sufficient responsibility to ensure that men of the right calibre are attracted to the profession of hospital administration. The efficiency of any hospital depends ultimately upon its administration, and it can never be repeated too often that the patient will judge the service solely on his experience of the particular hospital in which he is treated. Hospital and professional esprit de corps with all the claims that it has made upon the individual, whether doctor, nurse or layman, was crystallised in terms of service to the patient. The nationalisation of the hospitals and State employment of their staffs must not diminish that esprit de corps with all that it implies (and the march of events is sure to produce other difficulties not yet foreseen or foreseeable.

In this new and great undertaking there are two factors, the importance of which it is impossible to over-estimate. One of these is the realisation that no matter what the system, the ultimate achievement depends upon the enthusiasm, the integrity and the devoted work of the individual. While it is true that the staff of a hospital form a team, it is equally true that the strength of the team depends on the work of each individual comprising it.

The other factor is that the general public should continue to take an active and lively interest in the affairs of their local hospital or hospitals to the advantage of the patients, of the staff, and the Management, and so of the whole hospital service.

It is a remarkable fact and therefore cause for great encouragement that, despite the period of obscurity that persisted from 1943 onwards, there remains at this present moment a very widespread desire among people to be interested in hospital work. This is evidenced by the surprisingly large number who have sought information as to practical means by which they can do so. The establishment already in so many parts of the country of local bodies and associations in aid of a local hospital or group is proof that there is a great fund of good will for any service designed for the relief of sickness, provided only that good will is properly tapped, and that those who wish to express it can find an appropriate niche for their activities. The Government has, with deliberation, reaffirmed the principle that the hospitals shall be planned and managed by voluntary bodies, differently composed though these are from their predecessors ; and the idea that nationalisation of the hospitals by no means does away with the need for continuance of personal interest in, and support for, their work has been given a great welcome alike by the Press and the public. It is well that this is so, since without the spirit of voluntary service the nationalised hospital, however efficiently administered, would lack its own soul.

August, 1948

FINANCIAL REVIEW

The previous edition of the Year Book contained messages of encouragement and hope that further editions might be produced. It is fortunate that the present edition has been prepared, if only for the reason that the facts given in the statistical section provide opportunity to draw attention to the rapidly changing financial aspect of hospital services. Although the statistical tables for the voluntary hospitals in this edition are restricted to total figures and summaries, they are adequate for their purpose in conveying the scope and cost of the work undertaken and for enabling comparison to be made with earlier years.

The striking figures are those showing that the aggregate surplus of £2,700,000 on the year's maintenance account which the voluntary hospitals enjoyed in 1944 was in 1946 converted to an aggregate deficit of £4,135,000. This change has not come about by reason of a fall in total income or of a fall in income from voluntary sources (the total income for maintenance in 1944 was £25,650,000 and in 1946 £27,820,000). It is indeed interesting to note that voluntary gifts in 1946 actually show an increase of nearly £700,000 over those received in 1944, whilst contributions received from patients are up by £1½ millions, and legacies are up by £100,000. The contrast between a surplus of nearly £3 million and a deficit of just over £4 million which has taken place in two years is due to the startling increases in costs in every department of hospital service, as is shown by the following comparison of the chief items of expenditure :—

	1944 £	1946 £	Increase approx.
Provisions	3,275,000	3,880,000	18%
Surgery (drugs, dressings, etc.)	2,630,000	3,935,000	50%
Domestic (wages, fuel, lighting, cleaning, etc.)	3,535,000	4,810,000	36%
Other salaries and wages	10,170,000	14,585,000	43%
Other expenditure (on maintenance account only)	3,165,000	4,735,000	49%

In part these figures reflect the increase in commodity prices, and in part the results of the introduction into the hospital service of the Whitley Council principle for determination of salaries and wages in the light of those paid elsewhere and the general cost of living.

An even more striking picture of the change which has taken place during recent years is provided by comparing the costs during the last complete pre-war year—1938—with the first complete post-war year—1946. The figures are :

	1938 £	1946 £	Increase approx.
Provisions	2,440,000	3,885,000	60%
Surgery and dispensary ..	1,900,000	3,935,000	107%
Domestic	2,460,000	4,810,000	95%
Salaries and wages ..	5,610,000	14,585,000	160%
Other expenditure ..	2,390,000	4,735,000	98%
	14,800,000	31,950,000	115%

These increases of costs are not confined to the voluntary hospitals. A comparison of the statistics for the municipal and mental hospitals for the years 1938 and 1946 reveals comparable rises in costs.

It should be remembered that maintenance expenditure for 1946 includes practically nothing for repainting, alterations or extensions to buildings, or replacements of equipment. This position gives an indication of the heavy programme and the attendant cost with which the Regional Boards and the Teaching Hospitals will be confronted when it is possible for them to catch up with the work deferred during the war, and, in addition, to undertake the vast new building programme which, on all sides, is acknowledged to be necessary before the demands for hospital beds can be fully met. Even if costs rise no farther, the sum total required for hospital services under the National Health Service Acts will be formidable indeed during the next decade if essential developments are to be carried through.

Now that the National Health Service has been introduced and the voluntary hospitals as such thereby cease to exist, it is appropriate to record as a matter of historical interest a few statistics showing their achievements during the last fifty years (the period for which reliable data are available). During these years :—

The total income amounted to £490 millions.
39 million in-patients have been treated.
210 million out-patients have been dealt with.
In 1891 there were 163 hospitals (voluntary) providing 22,000 beds.
In 1948 there were 1,100 voluntary hospitals providing 100,000 beds.

The changes brought about by the National Health Service Acts make it inevitable that the form of presentation of information in any future edition of the Hospitals Year Book will be very different from the traditional lay-out. The Editor therefore takes this opportunity of making acknowledgment of the faithful and accurate work of Mr. W. Burtt in the compiling of directories and statistical tables which have appeared in familiar and standard form for so many years.

THE NATIONAL HEALTH SERVICE ACT, 1946

HOSPITAL SERVICES IN ENGLAND AND WALES

By J. P. WETENHALL, B.A.

Secretary of the British Hospitals Association

Of the various Acts providing for a National Health Service in the United Kingdom, the first in chronological order is the National Health Service Act, 1946, relating to England and Wales. Second comes the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947, followed in 1948 by a corresponding Act for Northern Ireland and concluding with an Act (at present a Bill under consideration by Tynwald) for the Isle of Man.

Before reviewing the English Act, as a whole, it is interesting to make the point that the supreme concentration of power in the State conferred in the English Act undergoes a gradual whittling process in the Acts that follow. Thus in England not only are all the hospitals transferred to the Minister of Health but also the pre-existing endowments of the non-teaching voluntary hospitals, the income from which he then has powers to redistribute, subject to certain provisos ; in Scotland a Hospital Endowments Commission is established to deal in a somewhat modified form with the pre-existing endowments of voluntary hospitals ; in the case of Northern Ireland the hospitals are transferred not to their Minister of Health but to the Northern Ireland Hospitals Authority established under the Act and retain their endowments ; and, finally, in the Isle of Man the service is built up without involving the transfer of the voluntary hospitals at all.

This brief survey of the English Act relates only to those parts concerned with the provision of hospital and specialist, and directly allied, services.

The Minister's Duty

The English Act imposes on the Minister of Health the duty of promoting a comprehensive health service to improve the physical and mental health of the people in England and Wales, and to promote the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of illness. The service is free to all, notwithstanding that under the National Insurance Act it is paid for in part from weekly contributions by employed persons and their employers, and by self-employed persons, and in larger part by taxation.

By Order-in-Council the Service became operative on July 5th, 1948.

The Minister is to be advised by a Central Health Services Council, composed in accordance with the First Schedule to the Act, and by a certain number of Standing Advisory Committees on special aspects of the service.

Part II of the Act deals with the provision both of hospital and of specialist services, and it becomes the duty of the Minister to provide all reasonable requirements in the matter of hospital accommodation, including medical, nursing and other services required and the services of specialists at hospitals, at health centres, at clinics and in the patient's home.

Hospitals Transferred or Disclaimed

The premises and equipment of all hospitals —voluntary, municipal and mental—are transferred to the Minister and their pre-existing governing bodies are dissolved.

The Minister, however, has power to inform a particular hospital that he does not require its services and that it is therefore not to be transferred to him. A hospital thus disclaimed has the right then to inform the Minister of its desire to be transferred to the service and, in that event, the Minister is bound to accede to the hospital's request. Under his powers the Minister has so far disclaimed some 250 hospitals and homes—the majority of which are very small or are denominational in character—on one or other of the following grounds : they do not come within the definitions of the Act ; they are not required by their Regional Board ; or they are staffed either wholly or in large part by members of religious orders.

Certain convalescent homes and other types of institution are excluded from the provisions of the Act which defines a " hospital " as any institution for the reception and treatment of persons suffering from illness or mental defectiveness, any maternity home and any institution for the reception and treatment of persons during convalesence or persons requiring medical rehabilitation, and includes clinics, dispensaries and outpatient departments maintained in connection with any such institution or home. It is made clear that clinic or dispensaries are not included if they only provide general practitioner services.

Management and Administration

A new structure for the management and administration of the hospital service is established and it is at this point that the English Act discriminates between teaching and non-teaching hospitals, both in the method of their management and in the disposition of the endowments previously held by voluntary hospitals.

Teaching Hospitals

The hospitals which the Minister, after consultation with the appropriate university, designates as teaching hospitals are grouped and placed under the control of Boards of Governors, appointed by the Minister in accordance with Part III of the Third Schedule to the Act. These Boards are directly responsible to the Minister.

There are transferred to these Boards the pre-existing endowments of the hospitals so designated (the term "endowments" is so comprehensively defined in the Act as to include the whole of their resources from their capital funds down to their petty cash balances); these moneys are transferred free of any previously existing trust and the new Boards of Governors are empowered to spend them at their discretion on any purpose other than the general maintenance of the hospitals in their group, subject only to the requirement that so far as practicable the original intentions of the donors are not prejudiced.

The teaching hospitals through their Boards of Governors, which include direct representation from the universities, appoint the whole of their own staffs including senior medical staffs. All teaching hospital staffs, whether lay or medical, are in the direct employ of the Boards of Governors.

In certain other respects, for example, their status as trustees enabling them to receive charitable gifts (in contra-distinction to their function as statutory bodies), and in their powers to undertake medical research, the Boards of Governors of teaching hospitals have rights pari passu to those granted to Regional Hospital Boards and Hospital Management Committees.

Medical and Dental Schools

Medical and dental schools, whether undergraduate or post-graduate, are not transferred to the Minister or to the Board of Governors of the teaching hospital with which they are associated but will be owned and administered in the Provinces by the governing body of the university of which they form part, and in London by their own governing bodies—any medical or dental school of London University which was not a body corporate was required to become incorporated within six months of the passing of the Act.

Non-Teaching Hospitals

In the case of the non-teaching hospitals the structure of administration is substantially different from that for the teaching hospitals.

Regional Hospital Boards

The direct agents of the Minister in respect of the non-teaching hospitals are the 14 Regional Hospital Boards, each Region being associated with a university having a school of medicine. The Boards are appointed by the Minister, in accordance with Part I of the Third Schedule to the Act.

The Boards' principal duties are to plan the Regional service; to form non-teaching hospitals into groups; to appoint, in accordance with Part II of the Third Schedule to the Act, a Hospital Management Committee to control and manage each group; to administer in a supervisory sense the hospital services of the Region; and to be the employers of all staffs, medical, professional and lay, employed in non-teaching hospitals throughout their Regions.

Hospital Management Committees

The Hospital Management Committees act as the agents of the Regional Hospital Board through whom they budget for their financial requirements and to whom they are responsible for the provision and adequacy of services.

By the terms of the Act they are charged with the duty of controlling and managing their group of hospitals; and by Regulation they have powers to select and appoint the whole of their staffs with the exception of the senior medical appointments, which are made by special Regional sub-committees appointed in consultation with the university and the Hospital Management Committee concerned. Part IV of the Third Schedule to the Act empowers Hospital Management Committees to appoint sub-committees, which permits the appointment of a House Committee for an individual hospital within a group.

The previous existing endowments of the non-teaching voluntary hospitals (the same comprehensive definition of "endowments" applies as in the case of teaching hospitals) are transferred to a central pool—the Hospital Endowments Fund. The Minister is empowered to allocate shares of this capital sum to Regional Hospital Boards and also to Hospital Management Committees, each enjoying the income derivable from their allocated share of capital for expenditure at their discretion on any purpose other than the general maintenance of the hospital. In certain circumstances the Regional Hospital Board, or the Hospital Management Committee, may secure the Minister's approval to spend a part or the whole of its allocated share of capital from the central pool.

As in the case of the endowments transferred free of trust to the new Boards of Governors, so in the case of the transfer to the central pool of the endowments of non-teaching hospitals free of any trust, the Minister, the Regional Hospital Boards and Hospital Management Committees are required to see that so far as is practicable the original intentions of the donors are not prejudiced. Particular reference in this respect is made to gifts associated with memorials.

Provision is also made to safeguard the perpetuation of the characteristics and associations of hospitals that have in the past been linked with a particular religious denomination.

Finance

Payments in respect of approved expenditure are to be made in accordance with Regulations made by the Minister and approved by the Treasury in such manner and at such times as the Treasury may direct and subject to the keeping of accounts in prescribed form as the Minister with the approval of the Treasury may determine.

The costs of maintaining the services are to be met so far as hospital services are concerned, by global payments based on budgets which the teaching hospitals submit direct to the Minister through their Boards of Governors; Hospital Management Committees will budget on the Regional Hospital Board who in turn will submit to the Minister their own budgets for their Region. In the submission of these budgets no account is to be taken of any endowments transferred to, or any gifts received after July 5th, 1948, by a Board of Governors or a Regional Hospital Board or a Hospital Management Committee.

Special Schools

The Act perpetuates the established practice whereby certain hospitals for children patients may be recognised as special schools.

Private Wards

The Minister may set aside accommodation in any hospital for use as private wards, the private patient paying the full cost of maintenance, and medical fees subject to an approved maximum. Such accommodation, however, can, when necessary, be used by an ordinary patient without payment where medical grounds and a lack of other suitable accommodation make this necessary.

Non-private patients can use accommodation in other single rooms or small wards, where available, on part-payment of the cost unless the accommodation is needed by another patient on medical grounds to whom no charge is made.

Ancillary Services Provided by the Minister

The Minister may conduct medical research, or by grants or otherwise assist persons to conduct medical research.

The Minister is empowered to provide a bacteriological service to prevent the spread of infectious disease.

He is also empowered to make available blood transfusion facilities at hospitals, and to furnish any other supplies or preparations not readily obtainable in cases of emergency, to local health authorities and medical practitioners.

Ancillary Services Provided by Local Health Authorities

The major Local Authorities, i.e., County Councils and County Borough Councils, are constituted Local Health Authorities and charged with the responsibility for providing certain ancillary public health and domiciliary services. Some of these, including in particular the domiciliary midwifery service and the ambulance services, are linked either closely or directly with the institutional services or requirements of the hospitals.

Regulations

The arrangements for hospital services thus made by the Act are skeleton in form and each development is left to be dealt with by subsequent Regulation or Order.

The principal Regulations already approved by Parliament include those providing for the areas of the Regional Hospital Boards; the appointment of the Regional Hospital Boards; the designation of teaching hospitals and the appointment of their Boards of Governors; the duties of Regional Hospital Boards, Hospital Management Committees and Boards of Governors; and the provisions covering the transfer, compensation and superannuation of staffs.

THE HOSPITALS SERVICE IN SCOTLAND

By LT.-COL. J. C. DUNDAS, D.S.O.
Chairman, Scottish Branch of the British Hospitals Association

This Act takes the place, in Scotland, of the National Health Service Act, 1946 (hereafter referred to as the English Act), which applies to England and Wales.

While the fundamental principles underlying the two Acts are the same, there are a number of important differences in the methods by which these principles are applied, due in part to the fact that the Law of Scotland differs in many respects from that of England and Wales and in part to the recognition by the Secretary of State for Scotland of the fact that methods appropriate in England would be totally unsuitable in the different conditions prevailing in Scotland.

The object of the following notes is to set out the main differences between the Scottish and English Acts insofar as these concern the Hospital Service. All references, except where otherwise stated, are to the National Health Service (Scotland) Act, 1947.

Before dealing with the differences between the two Acts in detail, it is desirable to draw attention to one factor which has led to certain major variations in the structure of the Hospital Service in the two countries.

In Scotland the number of beds in hospitals giving undergraduate or post-graduate teaching bears a very much higher proportion to the number in non-teaching hospitals than is the case in England and Wales.

Such being the case, it would have been impracticable in Scotland, even if it had been on other grounds desirable, to place the teaching hospitals under Boards of Governors independent of the Regional Hospital Boards—as in England and Wales—since to do so would be to deprive the Regional Hospital Boards of control of a very large number of beds in key hospitals in the regions, required for the treatment of patients for whom the Boards are responsible.

Further differences between the structure of the service in Scotland and England will now be referred to under separate headings.

1. Central Administration (Part I and First Schedule).

The equivalent of the Central Health Services Council is the Scottish Health Services Council.

The functions of the two councils are identical, but the constitution of the Scottish Council varies from that of its English counterpart in that no provision is made for the inclusion of the six ex-officio members specified in the First Schedule of the English Act, with the result that the number of members of the Scottish Council is 35 instead of 41 in England.

2. Accommodation for Private Patients (Sec. 5).

While the arrangements for admission of patients to hospitals on part-payment under Sec. 4 of both Acts are identical, there is one important difference in respect of admission of Private Patients under Sec. 5 of the Acts.

A proviso, not in the English Act, is inserted in the Scottish one which prevents the Secretary of State from providing such accommodation if a reduction in the number of beds available for other patients on the Appointed Day would thereby result. This proviso, which is in very general terms, might in theory result in a reduction in the number of beds available in a hospital for Private Patients but is in practice not likely to have any material effect.

3. Endowments of Voluntary Hospitals (Secs. 7 and 8).

It is in respect of hospital endowments that there is what is perhaps the most important difference between the English and Scottish Acts.

Under the English Act endowments fall into two categories, viz., those of hospitals designated as Teaching Hospitals by the Minister and those of other hospitals. In the case of the former hospitals, endowments are transferred on the Appointed Day to the new Boards of Governors free of any trust previously existing. In the case of the latter, endowments are transferred to a Hospital Endowments Fund under the sole control of the Minister who may thereafter distribute the assets of this fund in whole or in part to any Regional Hospital Board or Hospital Management Committee at his discretion, without necessarily having any regard to the original ownership of the endowment or the purposes for which it was given.

Under the Scottish Act, for the reasons given above, there is no such distinction between the endowments of teaching and non-teaching hospitals.

The endowments of any hospital transferred to the new Service are on the Appointed Day transferred to the new Board of Management of the hospital or group of hospitals in which the hospital is included, to be held and used subject to any existing trust, pending review by the Hospital Endowments Commission to be set up by the Secretary of State under Sec. 8 of the Act. There is a special provision for endowments defined in Sec. 7 (1), given between 6th November, 1946, and the appointed day of the class; these endowments are transferred to the new Board of Management free of trust, and are not subject to review by the Hospital Endowments Commission.

The Hospital Endowments Commission will submit to the Secretary of State schemes for the future government and management of the endowments which it is to review. In framing such schemes the Commission must have special regard to :—

(a) the spirit of the intention of the founder or donor of the endowment . . . and in particular to conditions intended to preserve the memory of any person or class of persons; and

(b) the extent to which the original purpose of the endowment is sufficiently provided for by the public service or otherwise.

While, therefore, it is within the power of the Commission, subject to the Secretary of State's approval, to make major changes in the ownership or use of endowments, there is a reasonable expectation that the Commission in carrying out its duties of review will not alienate those which can effectively be used for their original purpose or by the group of hospitals in which the hospital originally owning the endowment is now included.

Generally speaking, Scotland has the satisfaction of knowing that her hospital endowments have not been alienated in the wholesale way adopted by the Minister in England and can hope with some confidence that under the provisions of the Scottish Act, full regard will be had to the spirit of the intention of the donor and the purpose for which the endowments were given, especially those intended as War or other Memorials; and also that endowments will in the main be allocated for use in the district served by the hospital to which they were originally given, or as nearly as may be practicable for the purposes for which they were intended.

4. Local administration of hospitals and specialist services (Sec. 11 and Fourth Schedule).

(a) Regional Hospital Boards.

(i) The method of appointing and composition of these Boards is similar in both Acts, though the sub-head (e) in the Fourth Schedule, Part I, enables the Secretary of State to appoint persons whose membership of the Boards he may consider desirable, but who have not been suggested by any of the bodies referred to at sub-heads (a) to (d).

(ii) An important provision flowing from the inclusion of teaching hospitals under the Regional Boards is that contained in Sec. 11 (3) and Fourth Schedule, Part II, whereby the Secretary of State must set up in each Region a Medical Education Committee designed to advise the Regional Board in matters connected with the provision of facilities for undergraduate or post-graduate clinical teaching and for research.

(b) Boards of Management (Sec. 11 and Fourth Schedule, Part III).

As stated above, no hospitals in Scotland are designated as Teaching Hospitals and all come within the jurisdiction of the Regional Hospital Boards.

All are managed by Boards of Management acting as agents of the Regional Hospital Board.

These Boards are constituted in accordance with the Fourth Schedule, Part III, on lines similar to those of Hospital Management Committees in England and Wales. Special provision is, however, made for inclusion in the Boards of Management of hospitals, providing undergraduate or post-graduate teaching, of nominees of the University on which the Region is centred, and also of the Medical and Dental Teaching Staff of these hospitals.

5. Ancillary Services—Ambulance Service (Sec. 16).

This service is provided by the Secretary of State and not, as in England and Wales, by the Local Health Authority. In practice it is run along with the hospital service by the Regional Hospital Boards.

THE HOSPITALS SERVICE IN NORTHERN IRELAND

By M. P. SINCLAIR, F.C.A.

Hon. Secretary, Northern Ireland Branch of British Hospitals Association

It is with very great pleasure that I respond to the invitation to contribute to the Hospitals Year Book an article on the Hospitals Service in Northern Ireland, for two reasons. The first is that, unfortunately, too few people realise our constitutional position here in this corner of the British Isles, and the second is that arising out of that constitutional position, we have our own Health Services Act which in some respects is very different from the National Health Service Act, 1946, although basically it endeavours to attain the same objects—the provision of a comprehensive health service for all, free of direct cost.

Very briefly, I think it is necessary for me to give some indications of the character, conditions and position of Northern Ireland relative to Great Britain. This Province has an area roughly equivalent to Yorkshire. The last census in 1937 shows a population of 1,280,000, of which some half a million live in and around the large industrial city and port of Belfast. The next largest city is that of Londonderry with 48,000 inhabitants, while there are many tracts of very sparsely inhabited mountain and bog-land. Conditions, therefore, range from desolate waste country to a thickly populated and highly industrialised city with consequent variations in problems of hospital and medical provision. Constitutionally, Northern Ireland is an integral part of the United Kingdom, with its own elected Parliament which is strongly Conservative, including Labour-Unionist, the Labour (Socialist) Party being in a very small minority. It has wide powers to legislate for its people in matters regarding the social services, housing, agriculture, labour and commercial problems, but many others, particularly those having regard to taxation, finance, the Post Office, and the armed forces are reserved to Westminster. Owing to these reserved services, and to the reciprocity obtaining under the National Insurance Acts (the provisions of these are largely the same in both countries, the rates of contribution, and the amount, type and form of benefits obtainable being virtually identical), it was essential for the Government of Northern Ireland to introduce legislation to provide for a comprehensive health service. A Bill was presented to Parliament in August 1947, which, not without criticism and amendment, became law in February 1948, as the Health Services Act (Northern Ireland) with an operative date for its main provisions the same as elsewhere in the United Kingdom, viz., the 5th July, 1948.

It is neither my purpose, nor relevant to this article, to have reference to the general health services set up under the Act, but to deal only with Part III of the Act which lays down the form of the new hospital and specialist services. The governing body for these services is the Northern Ireland Hospitals Authority, a body corporate with perpetual succession and a common seal. It is a body of men and women appointed by the Minister of Health and Local Government, not as representing any particular organisation, but purely in their personal capacities, and by reason of their proved interest in hospital affairs. The Minister, before making the appointments was, however, obliged to consult not only the University of the Province and the medical profession, but also the local health authorities, the dental, pharmaceutical and nursing professions, and the organisations representative of the voluntary and rate-aided hospitals. Further, not less than one quarter of the members of the Authority had to be representative of these hospitals, not less than one-third medical practitioners and not less than three persons experienced in mental health services.

Upon the Hospitals Authority falls a duty to secure throughout Northern Ireland, hospital accommodation, the medical, nursing and other services required for the purposes of hospitals, and the services of specialists either at the hospitals or elsewhere if necessary. Moreover, they have power to provide any other accommodation or services not specifically mentioned, which they consider conducive to the efficient and sympathetic working of the scheme, only in this they must first consult the Ministry of Health. They have thus a minimum obligation to the public, but no limit to the ultimate improvement of the services under their control. Further, although they are bound to consult with the Ministry in certain circumstances, they are free to pursue their own course without Ministerial interference or direction.

In order to carry out these duties the Authority has an obligation to prepare various schemes. First, a general scheme for the whole Province, providing for the general management and control of the hospitals through Hospital Management Committees, and secondly, particular schemes for the performance by those management committees of such functions as are necessary for the local control or management of the individual hospitals or groups of hospitals. These particular schemes among other matters must make provision for regulating the financial relations between the Authority and the management committee concerned, for the appointment of officers, for the provision of accommodation on part-payment, for the continued maintenance where it exists of pay-bed accommodation, and for permission being given to doctors to treat private patients in the hospital.

When the original schemes are drawn up they must first be approved by the Ministry of Health, who may make such modifications as are considered advisable. After approval it is the duty of the Authority to give effect to the schemes. If in practice any detail of the various schemes requires modification, the Authority may introduce and adopt a new scheme after consultation with the Ministry. Again it will be seen that the Authority is master in its own house, as the schemes once settled may only be amended at the instigation of the Authority.

The actual control of the hospitals at the local level falls on the management committees. These are appointed by the Authority, and again consist of persons not representing any particular interest, but rather persons who have in the past identified themselves with hospital affairs. Of course, as in the case of the principal body, the Authority was and will in the future be bound to consult with various organisations before appointing a management committee. Two very important provisos are incorporated in the Act, one that a management committee must contain persons experienced in hospital management, and second that the first management committees must have a majority recruited from the members of the old governing body of the hospital. Continuity of local interest in individual hospital units has been attempted in these provisos, and in the fact that among those with whom consultations must take place before a management committee may be appointed are life governors or persons holding analogous office, and persons who have rendered voluntary service (other than professional service) to the hospital concerned. The management committees are the agents of the Hospitals Authority, and therefore subject to directions given by that body, but not from any outside source.

On the appointed day there were transferred to the Authority, with one exception, the actual bricks, mortar and land, together with all equipment and furniture belonging to every hospital in Northern Ireland, not being a hospital carried on for profit nor one administered by the Northern Ireland Tuberculosis Authority. The one exception exercised its powers of exemption under the Act, and the Minister accepted its claim for exemption. All other property such as investments, land not used for hospital purposes, money, bank balances, etc., were, subject to the payment of due liabilities, transferred to the new management committee which took over from the old governing bodies, these latter being automatically dissolved. A very important difference between the Northern Ireland Act and the National Act is here disclosed. These moneys and investments transferred to the management committees, usually termed the " endowments," remain in the absolute control, both as to capital and income, of the management committees subject only to any trusts previously applicable before transfer. If, however, in the changed circumstances these trusts prove impracticable, then the management committees may use the endowments for hospital purposes in any way they think fit, not so, however, as to be inconsistent with the management schemes referred to earlier. In short, hospital endowments are not to be reckoned with among the obligations of the State, but are available to supplement those obligations at the absolute discretion of the individual management committees.

With regard to medical research and teaching, there is a duty upon the Authority to provide the Queen's University of Belfast with adequate facilities for these most important objects. In fact, it is too well known for emphasis here that the success of the new services depends largely on an adequate flow of trained personnel. Moreover, post-graduate facilities are not forgotten as the Authority has power to make arrangements with universities or similar bodies for the provision of courses of instruction, and may make contributions towards the cost of the courses and towards the expenses of persons attending them. It may also conduct or assist by grants, research elsewhere than at the University. In connection with the ancillary medical services, a further duty falls upon the Authority to make adequate arrangements for (a) a unified ambulance service over the whole Province although they may enter into arrangements with the local health authorities for such part of the provision as may be agreed upon ; (b) a bacteriological service and a pathological service, including the provision of laboratories ; (c) a service of diagnostic radiology ; and (d) a blood transfusion service.

And what of the outcome of the new legislation ! No one can say. I believe that we have a foundation upon which a model hospital service can be built. Practice may show that it requires modification, but the utmost good will has been shown by all parties up to date. The Minister of Health, the Right Hon. William Grant, M.P., has always been very ready to listen to any representations made to him, and has often abandoned his own firm convictions when he saw that the weight of informed opinion was against him. The composition of the Hospitals Authority under the chairmanship of Dr. F. P. Montgomery, a man held in the highest esteem both by the medical profession and by all who know him, is such as to ensure that all shades of opinion are expressed, and no member is likely to have any other idea than to build within the framework of the Act a hospital service which may become the pattern for the World. A wonderful opportunity lies before Northern Ireland. We are short of beds, we are short of specialists, we are short of building materials for the new hospitals, we are short of nurses and nursing accommodation, but we are not short of energy nor a will to overcome our present difficulties, and we have an Act within which all things are possible.

ADMINISTRATION OF HOSPITALS UNDER THE NATIONAL HEALTH SERVICE ACT

By S. CLAYTON FRYERS, C.B.E., F.H.A.

The next twelve months will be of vital importance to the hospital services of this country, as during that time the Hospital Management Committees recently established will be developing their organisation and methods of administration. Decisions now made will have far-reaching effects. It is essential, therefore, that every step taken should be on right lines and be sufficiently elastic to permit of review and adjustment as this is found to be necessary. Although general guidance will, no doubt, be given from time to time by the Ministry of Health and Regional Hospital Boards, it has been made abundantly clear that the day-to-day running of the hospitals will rest, in the case of the teaching hospital, with the Board of Governors, and in the non-teaching hospital or group of hospitals, with the Local Management Committee.

If one may profit from past experience, two things, I think, emerge; first, we must seek to avoid, as far as possible, any semblance of remote control. The individual hospital must be made to feel a living entity in the group, and its administration must be warmed up by the closest possible personal contacts between staff, patients, and members of the Management Committee. In large groups, in order to secure this, it may be necessary to appoint House Committees for one or more hospitals according to size, and it is to be hoped that Management Committees will exercise their powers in this respect and not hesitate to make the fullest use of the many persons with hospital knowledge who would be willing to continue their interest by serving as members of such committees.

One of the marked differences between Local Authority and Voluntary Hospitals has been that management has been much more intimate in the latter, where Committees are appointed to deal with almost every branch of the hospitals' activities. Whatever form administration may take, it is of paramount importance that it must be brought as closely as possible into contact with the patient as an individual, for it is within the wards of each hospital that the new system will be judged.

Whilst the inherent dangers of over-centralisation must be guarded against, the grouping of hospitals under one Management Committee offers many advantages. It will enable the smaller hospitals to enjoy the full range of technical services which, hitherto, were only justified in the larger hospitals. It is inconceivable that each hospital in the group will continue to act as a separate entity, being linked only with others in the same group for allocation of function. To do this would involve three-tier administration and would convert the Management Committee into a miniature Regional Board. It is clear, I think, that there must be a good deal of centralisation at Management Committee level and, indeed, it is most desirable that this should be so. My idea of administration would be on the following lines:—

The principal officers to the Management Committee and Board of Governors have already been defined by the Ministry, and consist of a Secretary, who shall be the Chief Administrative Officer, a Finance officer, a Supplies Officer, and an Engineer. The functions of these officers will be as implied by their titles. The Board of Governors or Management Committee will be concerned to achieve the maximum degree of efficiency throughout their hospitals and this, in my view, will best be accomplished by, to some extent, splitting up their responsibilities on a functional as distinct from a hospital unit basis. This is a fundamental consideration and the greatest care will need to be exercised to ensure that, by so doing, the individual hospital does not lose unduly in status thereby. Among the activities which should be controlled and co-ordinated at Board of Governors or Management Committee level, and apart from the officers already referred to, I would suggest the following, others being added gradually as the need becomes apparent:—

Nursing: A principal Matron to co-ordinate nursing services within the group, and to act as adviser to the Committee or Board on all nursing matters;

Catering: A Catering Officer, responsible for the general supervision of feeding arrangements for both patients and staff;

Records Officer: A Medical Records Officer, responsible for the organisation of records and system of appointments for out-patients;

Dispensing: A Chief Pharmacist, who would be responsible for advising with regard to purchase of drugs, dressings and instruments, and for dispensing arrangements generally in the various institutions.

Each of these main departmental activities should be under the direction of a small sub-committee, at meetings of which the Senior Departmental Officer would be present, thereby giving him personal contact with the responsible committee and an opportunity of answering questions and stating difficulties. Such an arrangement would give the Departmental Head a greater sense of his responsibility and enable him to feel that the work he is doing is fully appreciated at the highest level. Each of these sub-committees should have, as Chairman, a member of the Board of Governors or Committee of Management who is specially interested in the work involved. Only in this way will the fullest advantage be taken of the experts in different branches of hospital work and uniform efficiency be obtained throughout the institutions in the group.

The present high cost of salaries and wages and shortage of labour make it imperative that manpower in hospitals should be kept at the lowest possible level consistent with efficiency and, in order to achieve this, the most careful examination will need to be made of all the hospitals' activities. The grouping of hospitals provides an opportunity for review, and each Board of Governors and Management Committee will be called on to justify its expenditure. The Treasury is unlikely, for long, to advance sums of money without careful scrutiny of the accounts of every hospital, particularly where the cost is comparatively disproportionately high in relation to work done. It is imperative, therefore, at the earliest possible opportunity that each Board and Hospital Management Committee should satisfy themselves that their organisation is on sound lines and that adequate answers can be given to any criticism which may be made. In this connection, Chief Administrative Officers will, no doubt, realise the importance of their responsibilities as it is to them committees must, in large measure, look for guidance. Whilst the future holds a challenge to the Hospital Administrator, it also offers great opportunities.

THE LOCAL HEALTH AUTHORITY SERVICES IN THE NATIONAL HEALTH SERVICE

Sir ALLEN DALEY, M.D., F.R.C.P., K.H.P.,
Medical Officer of Health, County of London.

The National Health Service Act, 1946, requires Local Health Authorities (L.H.A.s) to provide, equip, and maintain to the satisfaction of the Minister, premises which shall be called " health centres " (Section 21).

Local Health Authorities are the Councils of the Counties and the County Boroughs. At these " health centres " facilities shall be available for all or any of the following purposes :—(a) a general medical practitioner service, i.e., group practice ; (b) a general dental service ; (c) a pharmaceutical service ; (d) any of the other services, e.g., infant welfare clinics, which an L.H.A. is required or empowered to provide, including (as Education Authority) clinics for school children ; (e) for the provision of specialist or other out-patient services ; and (f) for health education purposes. A " health centre " can therefore be comprehensive and (1) include provision for doctors and dentists in contract with the local Executive Council as well as clinics for expectant and nursing mothers ; (2) be the headquarters of the local health visiting, domiciliary midwifery and home and domestic help services ; (3) include infant welfare and school clinics ; and (4) provide accommodation for visiting specialists ; or, it may simply be a number of rooms where doctors and/or dentists can work ; or an infant welfare clinic. In a circular (3/48) dated 14th January, 1948, the Minister of Health " regards the provision of Health Centres as likely, when properly designed and conducted, to prove a key feature in the general reconstruction of the country's health services " but " the building situation makes it impossible to undertake, for some time to come, any general programme of their provision." The circular deprecates the alternative, which is the conversion of existing buildings, on the ground that it " involves a real risk that second-rate production may prejudice the attractiveness of the whole Health Centre conception." Further, as the conception cuts new ground, centres should, for the time being, be experimental until experience in the actual working of a few has been gained. Subject to the above limitations, L.H.A.s are likely to press on with the provision of health centres as quickly as the building situation allows.

An important duty of L.H.A.s is " to make arrangements for the care, including in particular dental care, of expectant and nursing mothers and of children under the age of five years who are not attending primary schools " (Section 22). This is a continuation of the maternity and child welfare services of existing health authorities but their provision is now a duty and not a power. Further, many of these services in the past were administered, not by the Counties but by the Metropolitan or Municipal Boroughs and the Urban and Rural Councils. In future, the administration will be on a County basis and will link up with the school health services which are also provided by the Counties. It should be noted that provision of dental services for expectant and nursing mothers and for young children (those for school children being required by the Education Act, 1944) is a priority and is the responsibility of the L.H.A.s and of the local education authorities and not of the Local Executive Councils who are to provide the general dental service. The maternity and child welfare services cover a wide range and their administration will involve close co-operation with the Regional Hospital Boards who will be responsible for the hospital service and the provision of specialists for the local authority services and with the Executive Councils who will provide the general practitioner service. By arrangement with the Hospital Management Committees and the Boards of Governors of Teaching Hospitals, some of the maternity and child welfare clinics may be held on hospital premises.

L.H.A.s must also provide a domiciliary midwifery service and they are empowered to do so either by employing their own midwives or by using district midwives employed by voluntary organisations or by hospital authorities, or by a combination of both (Section 23).

A health visiting and home nursing service must also be provided by L.H.A.s and, as in the case of domiciliary midwifery, voluntary agencies, e.g., District Nursing Associations, may be used. The duties of health visitors are expanded and include the giving of " advice as to the care of young children, persons suffering from illness and expectant and nursing mothers, and as to the measures necessary to prevent the spread of infection " (Sections 24 and 25).

The vaccination laws are repealed and a duty is put upon L.H.A.s to offer vaccination and immunisation, e.g., against diphtheria, on a voluntary basis. General medical practitioners are to be given an opportunity to take part in this service.

It is the duty of L.H.A.s to provide a free ambulance service both for street accidents and removals to hospital (Section 27). This is a new function for many County Councils who may either provide the service themselves or pay voluntary agencies to do so. It is a far-reaching service and, technically, requires the authority to provide transport for non-ambulant sick people to attend out-patient departments, to be taken to nursing homes or even to consult a specialist. The existing shortage of vehicles and staff will hamper development. Hospitals should be careful in their demands, and should ensure a quick turn round of vehicles at the hospitals.

Wide powers are given to L.H.A.s with regard to the " prevention of illness, the care of persons suffering from illness or mental defectiveness or the after-care of such person " (Section 28). These powers can only be exercised, however, " with the approval of the Minister." He may direct that this section be operated for certain diseases and has already done so for tuberculosis.

Finally L.H.A.s are required to appoint " authorised officers " charged with the duty under the Lunacy and Mental Treatment Acts of taking initial proceedings in providing care and treatment for persons suffering from mental illness (Section 51). An important power, but not a duty, is given to L.H.A.s to provide, on reasonable payment according to the means of the recipient, domestic helps " for households where such help is required owing to the presence of any person who is ill, lying-in, an expectant mother, aged or a child not over compulsory school age " (Section 29). L.H.A.s have been required by the Act to submit their proposals for carrying out their duties or implementing their powers, to the Minister, with copies to all the bodies, statutory or voluntary, likely to be concerned. These bodies can make representations to the Minister for the amendment of the proposals within two months of their receipt. The Minister considers any such representations and then approves the proposals with or without amendment. When so approved it is the duty of the L.H.A. to implement them.

The Ministry of Health bears half of the cost incurred by L.H.A.s in carrying out the provisions of the Act.

THE MIDWIFERY SERVICES FROM THE HOSPITAL POINT OF VIEW

By SEYMOUR LESLIE

Hon. Secretary, Association of Special Hospitals
Secretary, Queen Charlotte's Maternity Hospital.

Nothing aroused more interest in hospital circles when " the Act " was first published than the apparent dichotomy implied by Clause 23. For the new Local Health Authorities (L.H.A.) are to run the maternity and midwives services, yet the nation's maternity wards will all be under the Regional or Teaching Hospital Boards. They are to provide midwives, yet these can only be trained, as to Part 1, in the wards. They are to staff and be responsible for the domiciliary midwifery services, the maternity and child welfare clinics, yet many of these are integral parts of the hospitals from which alone they can draw their specialists. They are to be responsible for the antenatal and postnatal clinics, but if the mother goes into hospital for her confinement, she passes under another authority. Yet continuity in her care is essential.

These anomalies, perhaps unavoidable, are being resolved brilliantly in characteristic British fashion by the elaborately detailed L.H.A. proposals to the Ministry. These provide for contracting with the Boards for continuing the present hospital domiciliary (home confinement) services and for consulting with them on co-ordinating the care of the mother and baby by the L.H.A. with the hospital's specialist services. Very welcome developments include the mutual exchange of obstetric and pædiatric staff with the hospitals, greater continuity in the midwife's care of a patient, development of the consultant and specialist services, greater attention to dentistry, analgesia, human milk centres, premature babies. Of course, shortage of staffs and building materials will delay much of this. But the Local Health Authorities have now an inspiring programme to implement.

The maternity hospitals and the hospitals with maternity wards, especially those with home-confinement " districts," have a leading part to play in all this. At present they alone have the full range of specialists, midwife-teachers and medical research facilities. They, too, can best initiate the uniform medical records implied by a national maternity service.

But since we are committed to the system of midwives, as contrasted, for example, with the American system (all deliveries by doctors), their training must not suffer by reason of the greater intensity of postgraduate medical teaching. Oddly enough the Act does not mention their training, but midwives do not spring from the ground fully trained. We must and shall overcome the acute shortage of midwives—a profession, remember, distinct from that of nursing. In a spirit of enthusiastic co-operation our country may yet lead in maternity services. For it is certain that our future is closely bound up with these services, where two generations meet and the future is born. Nothing can matter more. Perhaps nothing matters as much . . . .

WHITLEY COUNCILS AND THE HEALTH SERVICE

By HUGH LINSTEAD, O.B.E., M.P.,
Secretary of the Pharmaceutical Society ;
Vice-Chairman of the Joint Negotiating Committee (Hospital Staffs)

Many thousands of members of a dozen or more professions will be engaged in the National Health Service. They will expect not only to negotiate the terms and conditions of their contracts but to be able to make their contributions to the development of the service. For this purpose an elaborate system of Functional Councils under a National Whitley Council for Health Service Employees has been devised, with the Ministry on one side of the table and the representatives of the professions on the other. Some Councils will serve for one profession alone, others for groups of professions. Most of them will have existing scales as the foundation for their work and at the beginning the Central Council will be mainly concerned with co-ordinating conditions of service such as annual leave.

Among the problems with which the Councils—and particularly the central Council—will be faced is that of relativity of salaries. It is impossible to ignore this when dealing with the holders of professional qualifications involving varying lengths of study. Yet the assessment of the relative values is a difficult task, complicated by the " scarcity value " of some professional qualifications. A related problem arises from the fact that the same machinery is to function for the whole of Great Britain, although doubtless Scottish interests will be separately represented. It may be found that the line of separation will be less England and Scotland than town and country. Is the cost of living greatly different in Manchester and in Glasgow ? Or in Fife and Pembrokeshire ? This suggests that " London loading " may need to be given a new and wider significance.

Essentially these Councils will serve the purpose of the Health Service, but inevitably the scales will have far-reaching repercussions upon professional remuneration in other fields, especially where the same authority may be employing persons with the same qualifications in two departments—Public Health and, it may be, Education. This consideration opens up the question of the appropriate bodies by which the staff sides of the Councils will be represented.

The terms of reference for the Councils indicate that it is the wish of the Ministers that they shall provide a means whereby all those engaged in the service may contribute to its development. But they are liable here to conflict with the functions of the Advisory Committees to the Central Health Services Council, and it will require nice judgment to decide how far a Functional Council can usefully be allowed to follow this road and take on work already being undertaken elsewhere. Duplication of personnel may regulate this.

There is one serious danger in this machine which those concerned will doubtless seek to minimise. It is that the conditions of service of professional men and women shall come to be regarded as something to be measured primarily in terms of money. It is inevitable that this should be emphasised in negotiations involving bargaining, but if the representatives of the professions can found their case in the main upon the basis of remuneration related broadly to qualification and responsibility and are able to avoid measuring every inch of service in terms of money, they will be benefiting both their professions and the Health Service.

THE FUTURE OF HOSPITAL CONTRIBUTORY SCHEMES

By JOHN DODD, B. COM., A.C.I.I.

It is not generally appreciated that the voluntary hospital contributory scheme movement owed its modern form to a Government Committee —the Voluntary Hospitals Committee (commonly known as the Cave Commission) appointed by the first Minister of Health (Mr. Christopher Addison as he then was) in 1921—which was convinced " if the voluntary hospital is to continue and prosper it must rely not only on the large subscriptions and gifts, but also, and to an increasing extent, on moderate and continuous contributions from all classes of the community."

This Committee, having rejected nationalisation, left it to the friends of the voluntary hospitals to secure their finances. The phenomenal growth of the contributory schemes between 1921 and 1948 not only became a most powerful factor in keeping voluntary hospital doors open but undoubtedly represented the greatest popular voluntary social service movement ever attempted in the country. It certainly prepared the people for the extension of National Health Insurance to cover hospital treatment in the Act of 1946.

Statistics compiled by the British Hospitals Contributory Schemes Association show that 191 member schemes and 52 non-member schemes (leaving 6 member and 176 non-member schemes unaccounted for) collected over £7,500,000 for hospital and ancillary hospital purposes in 1947 from over 10,500,000 members who, with their dependants, numbered about three quarters of the population. The movement has collected between £90,000,000 and £100,000,000 since the first world war. It inspired Blue Cross of the United States and Canada which by the end of 1947 had enrolled 29,498,527 contributors.

The contributory schemes feel that they have made an outstanding contribution to the hospital services of the nation and that their nation-wide organisation, linked together since 1930 by the British Hospitals Contributory Schemes Association, ought to have received recognition in the National Health Service Act. With little official encouragement, but believing they might still render services to their contributors additional to those provided under the National Health and Insurance Acts, they tested public opinion. Generally, in the large centres of population, the people have shown that for the few pennies (never exceeding 6d.) a week for which the schemes ask, benefits ancillary to the national provision obtainable from a continuance of voluntary contributions are well worth having at a very economical cost compared with the compulsory contributions and taxation required by the Government's comprehensive service. The contributory schemes, whilst regarding their main objective as the support of the voluntary hospitals, had only one object—the welfare of the hospital patients. They have been doughty champions of their members when their members have come into conflict with hospital authorities whether voluntary or local government. Will the patient of the future need a champion, be the new hospital officers never so human ? Will the existence of patients' (and potential patients') organisations be justified in the future ? It was Disraeli who said : " It is our Institutions that have made us free, and can alone keep us so ; by the bulwark which they offer to the insidious encroachments of a convenient, yet enervating system of centralisation, which, if left unchecked, will prove fatal to the national character."

But contributory schemes were of two kinds, " hospital-owned " and independent. " Hospital-owned " schemes cannot be continued by nationalised hospitals. Some have reconstituted themselves as independent schemes. The British Hospitals Contributory Schemes Association recommends that the movement could ideally be reconstructed on a regional basis with boundaries conterminous with the National Health Service regions. The Ministry of Health supports this recommendation.

What is there left for contributory schemes to provide ? Possible future activities for con tributory schemes were enumerated in a document prepared by a special Sub-Committee of the B.H.C.S.A. in 1947. Summarised they are :—

Convalescent home accommodation .. .. } for services outside the Spa treatment .. .. } National Health Service Act.

Loan of sick room equipment .. .. ..

Care of mothers and young children, prevention of illness, care and after-care and domestic help for which local authorities are empowered to make assessments.

Cash benefits for patients in hospital to assist them replace loss of wages and/or pay for the incidental expenses of illness.

Financial support for hospitals and voluntary associations.

Grants could be given to hospitals and voluntary associations for such amenities as may be desirable but which are not provided under the National Health Service. Examples are :—

(a) Hospitals.

1. Libraries (including periodicals), stationery and writing materials.
2. Flowers.
3. Canteen facilities.
4. Games and permanent toys for children's wards.
5. Radio.
6. Entertainments.

Perhaps more important still, contributory schemes could make discretionary grants to hospitals either for emergency purposes or in general supplementation of State grants.

(b) Old People.

For sponsoring, encouraging and so far as possible assisting financially all measures designed to deal with the problem of the aged.

(c) Voluntary Health Associations.

For encouraging new avenues of service on the part of the various health organisations which, it may be assumed, will continue to function after the appointed day, or will contract with or receive grants from local health authorities for the provision of services under the Act. Contributory schemes themselves could well become the organised bases of representation of the patient.

(d) Medical Research.

For medical research to supplement Government or other provision, if necessary.

Most of the schemes in the regional (university) cities and some of the schemes in smaller places have reconstructed themselves. They are making a bold bid for survival and are extending their services to the country areas which may be left uncovered by the dichotomy of the movement which the Act brought about. In two years' time it should be possible to judge with what success the pioneers of the new movement have met in their efforts to persuade the people that their interests will be better served by maintaining a popular democratic movement ancillary to the National Health Service, than by shirking responsibility and leaving this most intimate subject of health entirely to their rulers.

In this connection I wish to put forward a purely personal suggestion. It is that local voluntary committees of friends of the local hospitals retained or established for helping to provide comforts and amenities for patients on the lines suggested by the British Hospitals Association in the memorandum entitled " Local Organisations and Funds in aid of a particular hospital or group of hospitals," might appoint representatives on regional or sub-regional contributory scheme managements when their locality is not large enough to maintain a scheme of its own, and that such committees might act as local representatives of the contributory schemes.

It will be appreciated that there is a fundamental difference between the pre-July 5th, and post-July 4th, 1948 contributory scheme. The old schemes were able to discharge their administration costs, provide ancillary services and give the balance remaining to the hospitals. They could not become bankrupt. The new schemes, offering specific benefits to their members, must be actuarially sound or they will court disaster. Therefore, they must aim at enrolling large numbers of contributors over wide areas.

They should also try to maintain the spirit of the voluntary hospitals by attracting such gifts and legacies as they can for any or all the Government hospitals in their area and for medical charities continuing to work outside the Act. The Boards of Governors and Management Committees will use these gifts for purposes specified by the donors or within their own discretion for amenities outside the Government provision, medical research, etc., and contributory schemes should do their utmost to maintain friendly relationships with the hospital authorities and with any ancillary organisations which may be formed to maintain and foster close links, of a practical as well as of a sentimental character, between local communities and local hospitals.

MEDICAL RECORDS IN HOSPITALS

By H. COTTON, F.S.S.
Records Officer, Nuffield Bureau of Health and Sickness Records, Oxford

For medical planners, hospital records—properly maintained and intelligently used—are the basis of action on large and small issues. Administratively, they are valuable in the assessment of performance and the forecasting of needs. In the field of public relations—a realm not yet properly covered by the hospital service—they make possible a new kind of balance sheet, presenting achievement in terms of human service. From the legal aspect, good hospital records are of immense value and may well prevent vexatious litigation. To researchers they are indispensable, since the bulk of all progress comes from the study of observations made on numbers of cases exhibiting similar characteristics in more or less degree. Educationally, good notes enable tuition and personal observation to be linked with recorded experience. In national medical statistics, where individual records of illness are the source-documents, the hospital medical record holds a high place in the list of necessities.

Hospitals and their staffs, however, have more immediate concerns : namely, the healing of their patients, the improvement of techniques of treatment, and, above all, the ever-present task of utilising their own resources to the utmost advantage of the neighbourhood from which their clientele is drawn. What is not universally recognised is that there is no conflict between the various realms in which medical records (including these kept in hospitals) are employed. The same records serve the immediate and the more remote needs.

In considering whether its medical records are satisfactory, therefore, a hospital should take a broad view and ask the following questions :—

(1) Do our records assist in the care of our patients, i.e., are they accurate, complete and available instantly for use when required ?

(2) Are all records capable of analysis for such purposes as may be necessary, e.g., planning administration, teaching and research ?

It is clear that if these questions are to be answered affirmatively, two conditions must be fulfilled. The notes which comprise the records must be good notes (i.e., they must be accurate and complete), and they must be maintained systematically and produced on demand for the use of clinicians, administrators and statisticians.

The matter of accuracy and completeness is primarily one for the medical teacher ; it relates to the professional content of the record. That good comprehensive note-taking is a valuable personal discipline will not be challenged. That careful documentation of cases is the only valid method of conveying vital information on cases from doctor to doctor, hospital to hospital, department to department is equally beyond dispute. But it it is not, perhaps, always realised that upon the accuracy and completeness of original notes, rests the whole science of medical statistics. Statistics are but the aggregation of recorded observations : if the observations are faulty (or if, being good observation, they are wrongly or incompletely recorded) the statistics based on them are worthless. Imprecision and incompleteness in recording invalidates, to the extent to which they occur, all the conclusions drawn from the aggregated data. It should accordingly be a matter of the first importance for chiefs in all fields of work (medical, surgical, departmental, administrative) to require and insist upon full and exact notation of every relevant fact elicited and observed about each case. If the chief makes it a duty to see that his registrar writes good summaries, the registrar will see to it that the housemen write good notes. If the registration clerk knows that the house governor is personally interested in the correct recording of names and ages, the percentage of slovenly mistakes will diminish. It is not too much to say that if sufficient attention is not paid to precision and completeness in medical records, it is not worth paying any attention at all to methods of storing and analysing them.

Assuming that these basic conditions are met, the system which is nowadays conceded to be the best for maintaining the medical record of a hospital is as follows :—

(1) All medical documents on an individual patient, however widely separated in time and however many departments of the hospital (in-patient or out-patient) have rendered service to him, are kept in one folder.

(2) Within this folder, the complete documents for each term of treatment (in-patient or out-patient) appear in chronological order, with an index sheet to guide the reader to the story of any particular term of treatment.

(3) The documents for each term of treatment are arranged in a prescribed order, not necessarily chronological.

(4) Pro forma stationery is used for all " normal " contributions to the record. It is important that pro formas should not be elaborate, and that they should be regularly reviewed.

(5) All stationery forming part of the final medical record should be of standard size.
(6) A single numbering system is applied throughout the hospital; the patient retains his number throughout his connection with the hospital, which may last a lifetime.
(7) A master alphabetical name-index of patients acts as the key to numerically-ordered records.
(8) A diagnostic index is maintained, so that the notes of patients treated for each disease can be readily isolated. The diagnostic index can be of many kinds, from the ordinary plain index card to the complex machine-punched card suitable for mechanical sorting and tabulation.
(9) Suitable arrangements are made for storing inactive notes so as to economise storage space. Photographic copies may be made and the originals destroyed. The copies may be of any size smaller than the originals, down to microfilm size.
(10) Records are not handled by patients.
(11) An efficient appointments system for all clinics and accurate waiting lists for the wards are essential.
(12) Records are controlled throughout by a medical records officer.

This article cannot aspire to be a blueprint; the physical difference between one hospital and another make it impossible to write a formula. The application of the principles set out above, with due allowance for local peculiarities and resources, will produce a satisfactory result, but nothing can exempt the hospital desiring excellence from the triple task of:

(a) Ensuring that the twin gospels of precision and completeness are preached incessantly from the highest levels.
(b) Surveying present methods in detail and planning the cure for each individual deficiency discovered.
(c) Providing the premises, equipment and staff to do the job adequately.

MEMORANDA

THE RECRUITMENT AND TRAINING OF NURSES

A MEMORANDUM SUBMITTED TO THE MINISTER OF HEALTH JOINTLY BY THE BRITISH MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, THE BRITISH HOSPITALS ASSOCIATION AND THE MEDICAL SUPERINTENDENTS' SOCIETY

I. INTRODUCTION

1.—Each of the organisations jointly submitting this memorandum has already furnished, at the invitation of the Minister, critical comments on the Report of the Working Party on the Recruitment and Training of Nurses. The comments of the British Medical Association were drafted by a special committee of the Association on which the other bodies sharing responsibility for the present memorandum are represented. When the committee proceeded to discuss constructive proposals, there appeared to be a large measure of agreement between the representatives of these bodies and the other members. The Council of the British Medical Association therefore decided to report the conclusions of the committee to the Councils of the other co-operating organisations in the hope that they would meet with general approval. The result is the submission of this memorandum jointly by the bodies named above. It is not merely that the other organisations have acquiesced in proposals formulated by the British Medical Association. The representatives of the other organisations, whose contributions to the work of the Association's committee were not limited to expressions of their individual opinions, have taken an important part in the shaping of the proposals, which are to be regarded as truly the joint production of all the bodies concerned. It is hoped that the unanimity of view among these bodies will commend the proposals to the sympathetic attention of the Minister.

2.—Acknowledgment is made of valuable help received from two members appointed to the committee as representatives of the Royal College of Nursing and one appointed as a representative of King Edward's Hospital Fund for London.

3.—The Working Party have stated that it was not its aim to formulate " interim proposals to remedy or palliate the difficulties of the present." The authors of this memorandum believe that the general plan advocated by the Working Party, even when regarded as a long-term policy, is in some respects unsatisfactory and, considered as a whole, impracticable. In particular, they think that the training for the essentially practical occupation of nursing should be largely of the nature of an apprenticeship, and that, while the ward work of the student nurse should not be subordinated to the needs of the hospital, her status cannot be completely that of a student. They welcome the suggestion of a common basic training but consider that a plan which would restrict the title and status of " nurse " to those capable of completing a comprehensive course of training and qualifying for State Registration must continue to be of only academic interest, at least for many years to come.

4.—The urgent problem is that of remedying the present grave shortage of nurses, but proposals directed to the solution of this problem need not necessarily be only makeshift and temporary. The aim of this memorandum is to present an outline of a plan which, while suitable for immediate adoption, might with advantage remain in operation for an indefinite period.

II. RECRUITMENT

5.—Recruitment to the nursing profession can no doubt be improved by the provision of better material conditions, by the removal of unnecessarily irksome discipline and by the extension of advisory services for those contemplating a nursing career. But such measures are not in themselves sufficient. There are two important problems the solution of which is urgently necessary if the requisite numbers of suitable candidates are to be attracted to the profession.

The Problem of the " Gap "

6.—The first problem is that of the " gap " or, in the words of the Working Party, " the loss of potential recruits owing to their leaving school too early to proceed straight to training and taking up some other occupation." The Working Party suggests that the importance of this problem has been exaggerated, pointing out that some 55 per cent. of nursing recruits transfer to nursing from other employment. This figure gives no cause for complacency. It may well be that many potential recruits of high ability are lost to the profession because the success which their superior intelligence wins for them in their first years of employment makes them unwilling to relinquish positions offering good prospects of advancement.

7.—It is suggested, therefore, that " pre-clinical " training for girls aiming at a career in nursing should be arranged in grammar schools as part of a general educational course of two years' duration, admission to which should be open to suitable candidates at the age of 16, whether or not they have gained a School Certificate. Pre-clinical courses should be available also in evening classes, particularly for the benefit of girls who have left school below the age of 16. In addition, the pre-clinical training should be given in hospital training units. Maintenance grants should be provided, through the Ministries of Health and Education, for pre-clinical students whose economic circumstances would otherwise make it impossible for them to undertake the training. Suggestions as to the content of the training are offered in Section III below.

The Problem of the " Assistant Nurse "

8.—The second problem is that of increasing the attraction of the type of nursing now carried out by " assistant nurses." Because of housing and other conditions which make it difficult for patients to be treated at home, there is a growing tendency to admit to hospital patients who do not need nursing of a highly skilled form. Much hospital nursing—and by no means only in institutions for the chronic sick—can and must be carried out, under skilled supervision, by nurses who have achieved a satisfactory measure of practical efficiency in the basic duties of the profession but have not completed the course of training qualifying for admission to the State Register. An extended provision of pre-clinical courses to bridge the gap between school and hospital will not in itself produce a sufficient increase in the number of recruits of this type. The problem can be solved only by the removal of the stigma attached to the position of the assistant nurse through alteration of her training, status and title.

9.—The authors of the present memorandum believe that this can best be achieved by arranging a uniform pre-clinical training, followed by a uniform hospital training of a practical character, for all entrants to the nursing profession. They suggest that this common part of the training should occupy a period of approximately two years, at the end of which there should be an examination of an essentially practical nature. For those wishing to qualify for State Registration a further period of training would be necessary, with a wider syllabus and more advanced theoretical instruction. For the girl content to work under supervision in practical bedside nursing no higher training would be required. On satisfactory completion of the common training in general medical, surgical and sick children's nursing, she would be given a certificate entitling her to be regarded as a nurse and to be called " nurse " (without a qualifying adjective of any kind). It is suggested that her statutory designation should be " Enrolled Nurse," which would enable her to place the letters E.N. after her name just as the State Registered Nurse uses the S.R.N. In an address on the occasion of a Nurses' Prize Giving in October, 1946* Sir Ernest Rock Carling said : " I think there should be a basic training in the art and craft of nursing of two years' duration, that must be taken by everybody—everybody—at the end of which there should be entitlement to the name ' nurse '—not ' assistant nurse.' This should be open to all girls without any difficult educational test." It is believed that the girl of modest abilities, if she is allowed in this way to start along the same road as her more gifted sister, and is accorded a definite professional status even should she decide not to go all the way, will be able to occupy a recognised position in the profession with a proper sense of the dignity of her calling, knowing that she is indeed a nurse and not merely some sort of inferior substitute for a nurse. The training necessary is outlined in greater detail in the next Section.

* Published in " The Medical Officer " of November 2nd, 1946.

Nursing Aides

10.—As an additional means of improving the staffing of the hospitals, the plans for recruitment should include efforts to attract, for practical training as nursing " aides," girls who would not wish to undertake the common nursing training referred to above but would like to be associated with the work of caring for the sick. The duties of the nursing aide should be related to nursing and not to domestic work. A standardised course of practical instruction should be arranged for this class of hospital worker, and consideration should be given to the advisability of a certificate being awarded by the Ministry of Health to those who complete the training satisfactorily.

III. TRAINING

11.—The authors of this memorandum consider that it would be unwise to attempt in a period of two years to provide a training qualifying for admission to the State Register. While deprecating an excess of routine duties during the training period, they think that much repetitive work is essential to the proper acquisition of nursing skills, and that any time saved by the elimination of unnecessary tasks undertaken by student nurses at present should be used to reduce the pressure of work in the wards rather than to shorten the duration of the training. They believe that, in the interests of maintaining the efficiency of the training and the high prestige which the British nursing profession justly enjoys, the course leading to the qualification of S.R.N. should continue to occupy a period of three years. They favour, however, a shorter period of common training, satisfactory completion of which would entitle the student to the statutory designation " Enrolled Nurse."

12.—There would then be two classes of nursing staff trained for general nursing duties—Enrolled Nurses and State Registered Nurses. Every State Registered Nurse would first have qualified as an Enrolled Nurse, and every Enrolled Nurse who wished to complete the full course of basic training would have an opportunity of becoming a State Registered Nurse. The proportion of trainees qualifying for admission to the State Register would vary from time to time, depending on the extent to which recruitment measures succeeded in attracting students of superior ability. In short, whereas the scheme recommended by the Working Party would provide the hospitals with a relatively small body of nurses, all State Registered, which would have to be reinforced by a host of nursing orderlies, the plan advocated in this memorandum is designed to produce a sufficient supply of nurses, of whom a varying but substantial proportion would not be State Registered but State Enrolled.

13.—The proposed scheme of training has four stages. First, there is a preliminary or "pre-clinical" course, including an introduction to hospital work and leading up to the hospital training proper. Secondly, there is a practical hospital training in general nursing duties, at the end of which the successful student becomes entitled to the designation "Enrolled Nurse" and is fitted for nursing employment under supervision. The third stage is designed to enlarge the experience of the Enrolled Nurse and produce a State Registered Nurse capable of occupying a responsible position in any type of hospital although not fully trained in any specialty. The final stage comprises a variety of post-registration diploma courses and is intended for those State Registered nurses who wish to specialise in particular branches of the profession.

Pre-Clinical Training

14.—All candidates for training in nursing should be required to complete successfully a pre-clinical course before admission to hospital training. As has been recommended above, the pre-clinical instruction should be made available in grammar schools (as part of a general educational course of two years' duration begun at age 16) and in evening classes; and it should be provided also in pre-clinical training units within the hospital system. The present preliminary training schools should be adapted for use as pre-clinical schools. Any additional accommodation required for residence should be arranged in hostels or lodgings. It is essential that maintenance grants should be provided, through the Ministries of Health and Education, for pre-clinical students in hospital schools and in grammar schools and evening classes who could not otherwise undertake the training.

15.—The pre-clinical training should include, in the first place, elementary instruction in the basic sciences—anatomy, physiology, normal psychology, hygiene and preventive medicine, chemistry and dietetics. Simple psychology should be taught in relation to physiology, emphasis being placed on the approach to the patient as a person. The object here is to impart an understanding of human relations as a foundation for the instruction to be given later in the nursing of psycho-somatic and psychiatric conditions.

16.—First aid and home nursing, as taught by the Red Cross and St. John organisations, should be included in the pre-clinical course; and an introduction should be given to the work of nursery schools and nurseries. The environmental conditions of the patient should be studied in connection with social welfare activities, particularly the work of the Almoner's department. It is inadvisable that this part of the training should be linked with the district nursing service, as the intrusion of young students into the homes of the people in the company of the district nurse would cause justifiable resentment.

17.—Finally, instruction should be given in the theory and practice of nursing, and the student should be introduced, in the concluding part of the course, to the work of the hospital in all its departments—not merely the wards and out-patient clinics but also the kitchens, laundry, sterilising rooms and so on. The various fields of employment open to the trained nurse should be explained and the student should be given an understanding of the relation of the nursing profession to the social economy as a whole.

18.—Those students who receive the pre-clinical training in grammar schools or evening classes should be transferred to hospital pre-clinical training units for the concluding four weeks of the course, which should be devoted to continuous training in hospital. Where the whole of the pre-clinical training is given in a hospital training school the duration of the course should be from 16 to 23 weeks. The period recommended for the common hospital training course, described below, is 69 weeks, the two courses being planned to occupy together approximately two years, including an allowance of six weeks each year for vacations.

19.—Admission to a pre-clinical course should not be dependent on the passing of the School Certificate examination or any other academic test, but should be open to any girl who appears normally intelligent and not obviously unfitted by temperament for a career in nursing. The suitability of the student's choice of career should be reviewed at the end of the pre-clinical course, and it is at this stage that any appropriate psychological tests would best be applied, but a rigid standardisation of the selection procedure is undesirable and it is important that account should be taken of temperament and character as well as of aptitudes. Those students who complete the pre-clinical course successfully should receive certificates from the General Nursing Councils, which should approve the syllabus of the course and the standard of the examination to be taken at its conclusion.

The Common Hospital Training

20.—The first part of the hospital training proper should occupy a period of 69 weeks and consist of instruction of an essentially practical character in general medical, surgical and sick children's nursing. This practical hospital training, like the pre-clinical course, should be undertaken by all student nurses and should carry the student up to the standard of proficiency required of the Enrolled Nurse. Of the 69 weeks, 53 should be devoted to Medicine and Surgery. The remaining 16 weeks should be allocated to the Casualty Department (four weeks) and to Paediatrics (12 weeks).

21.—Ideally, the time given to medical and surgical nursing should be divided equally between the two departments, but this is not immediately practicable as the intake of patients cannot be regulated in accordance with the theoretical requirements of nurse training. If frequent migration from one hospital to another is to be avoided, it is essential to permit some latitude in the distribution between the two departments of the total allowance of 53 weeks, but a period of 15 weeks should be regarded as the minimum for each department, to be exceeded wherever practicable. The instruction given in the medical wards and out-patient departments should include the psycho-somatic approach to medicine, dermatology and the care of the chronic sick. In the surgical department the student should be introduced to the work of the wards, out-patient departments and operating theatre, including gynaecology, orthopaedic surgery, ophthalmic surgery and surgery of the ear, nose and throat. It is of the highest importance that all students of nursing should be given an insight into the psychological factors producing or complicating physical symptoms and should learn to handle the patient with understanding as a person.

22.—A large general hospital with a paediatric department will be able to provide the whole of the common hospital training, but in some cases it will be necessary to transfer the students for 12 weeks to a sick children's hospital for the training in paediatric nursing. This can be arranged easily on an exchange basis ; for the children's hospitals should continue to recruit their own trainees, who will need to be transferred to general hospitals for 12 weeks' experience in the nursing of adult patients.

23.—Consideration should be given to the advantages of recognising suitable mental hospitals and sanatoria, and also the major isolation hospitals where a wide variety of cases of infectious disease are concentrated, as parent hospitals for the purpose of the common training. The suitability of particular special hospitals for general training purposes would, of course, depend on the facilities available and would have to be determined by the recognised approving bodies, presumably the General Nursing Councils. In such cases some elasticity would be essential in the arrangements for transferring the students to other hospitals for the 12 weeks' training in paediatric nursing and additional training in medical and surgical nursing, but a minimum of migration should always be the aim, as frequent movement from one hospital to another tends to have a very disturbing effect on the young student. Preferably there should be one migration only, and in no case should more than two be necessary.

24.—Students should be examined at the end of the common hospital training. The examination should be an external one, held under the auspices of the General Nursing Councils, but reports on practical ability from the parent hospital should be taken into account. A student who passes the examination should be awarded a certificate entitling her to the statutory designation " Enrolled Nurse," and should be regarded as qualified for nursing employment under supervision. Having completed the common part of the training, and become competent to undertake nursing duties in a subordinate capacity, she will be free to continue her studies with a view to State Registration if she so desires.

The T.A. Certificate

25.—One exception should be allowed to the general rule that all students of nursing should be required to complete the pre-clinical course and the common hospital training. It is clearly desirable to continue the provision of a certificate in tuberculosis nursing for those girls who, through physical incapacity, are unable to undertake a general training. The authors of this memorandum have considered the advisability of restricting eligibility for the Tuberculosis Association Certificate, without prior training in general nursing, to students whose names are included in the Register of Disabled Persons. They are reluctant to recommend any wider departure from the principle of a common training but they are inclined to the view that, if only as a temporary expedient to assist in staffing the sanatoria, the T.A. Certificate should continue to be granted to candidates, both fit and disabled, trained in tuberculosis nursing, whether or not they have received the common training in general nursing. A diploma in tuberculosis nursing, on the other hand, should be awarded only after a special course of training following State Registration.

The Third Year of Basic Training

26.—For those nurses who wish to become State Registered nurses a third year of training will be necessary, in which more advanced theoretical instruction will be combined with a wider range of practical work. An essential part of the third year's course is a three months' training in psychiatric nursing, during which the student must be resident in a mental hospital. A further period of three months should be divided between a tuberculosis sanatorium and a hospital for infectious diseases. Six weeks should be devoted to basic training in obstetric nursing, limited to ante-natal and post-natal clinics and the nursing of the normal puerperium. Four weeks should be spent in acquiring knowledge of the public health field, including health visiting and district nursing. Public health nursing is regarded as a specialty for post-registration study, and it is considered sufficient to include in the general training a comparatively brief survey of the field, designed to give the student an understanding of the public health point of view.

27.—Six weeks being allowed for vacations, there remains a period of three months to complete the full year. This should be spent in the parent hospital, where the student will "round off" her general training and acquire valuable experience of taking responsibility in a comparatively senior position. It is thought unnecessary to lay down any rigid rule as to the order in which the subjects of the third year should be taken, but the four weeks' introduction to the public health field might appropriately form the concluding part of the course.

28.—The two preceding paragraphs have been written with the student in mind whose parent hospital is a general hospital or a paediatric hospital. In other cases some variation of the programme would clearly be necessary. A student trained in a mental hospital, for example, would spend twelve weeks in a general hospital during the third year, just as the student from the general hospital would spend twelve weeks in a mental hospital. The programme involves frequent migration from one hospital to another, but this is likely to prove much less unsettling in the third year than at an earlier stage of training.

29.—At the end of the third year the student will be ready to attempt the examination qualifying for State Registration. Whatever the nature of the parent hospital, the certificate issued by the qualifying body should be in respect of the general training, the aim of the three years' course being to produce a nurse capable of undertaking all forms of nursing without being a specialist in any one form. True specialisation will follow State Registration. The nurse whose parent hospital has been a mental hospital, for example, and who decides to specialise in psychiatric nursing will be at an advantage in her post-registration training as she will already have covered much of the ground, but it is undesirable that she should be labelled in any way as a specialist until she has acquired a diploma in her chosen field after a special training following State Registration.

Specialisation

30.—The authors of this memorandum have not discussed the scope and duration of the further training which should be provided for State Registered Nurses wishing to acquire diplomas in particular specialties. They are merely concerned to recommend the principle of specialisation being open only to those nurses who have completed the three years of basic training and who have been admitted to the State Register.

Male Nurses

31.—It is highly desirable that male nurses should have wider opportunities of training and employment. The training of the male nurse should be as comprehensive as possible and, in all appropriate conditions, he should be eligible, equally with the female nurse, for promotion to posts of responsibility. The provision of a wide basic training for male nurses would be facilitated by the recognition of suitable mental hospitals as parent hospitals for general training purposes, as has been suggested above. It is realised that restrictions of accommodation make it difficult to improve the training facilities for male nurses at the present time, but the general plan of training outlined in this memorandum should be regarded as applying, in principle, to the male student.

IV. SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS

Pre-Clinical Training

1.—All candidates for training in nursing should be required to complete successfully a pre-clinical course before admission to hospital training.

2.—The pre-clinical course should include :—

(i) The basic sciences : elementary instruction in anatomy, physiology, normal psychology (human relations), hygiene and preventive medicine, chemistry and dietetics.

(ii) First Aid and Home Nursing.

(iii) The work of nursery schools and nurseries.

(iv) Environmental conditions—the work of the Almoner's department.

(v) The theory and practice of nursing and the relation of the nurse's work to the social economy as a whole ; and

(vi) Introduction to hospital.

3.—For students wishing to remain at school up to the age of 18, the pre-clinical training should form part of a two years' educational course begun at the age of 16 and open to all suitable candidates, whether or not they have gained a School Certificate.

4.—The pre-clinical training should be available in evening classes, particularly for the benefit of girls who have left school below the age of 16.

5.—The pre-clinical training should be provided also in training units within the hospital system, the existing preliminary training schools being adapted for use as pre-clinical schools, and the course occupying a period of 16 to 23 weeks.

6.—The student who takes the pre-clinical course at a grammar school or in evening classes should be transferred to a hospital pre-clinical training unit for four weeks' continuous training in hospital to complete the course.

7.—Through the Ministry of Education and the Ministry of Health, maintenance grants should be provided where necessary for pre-clinical students.

8.—The student's ability to undertake a career in nursing should be reviewed at the end of the pre-clinical course, and a certificate should be awarded by the General Nursing Councils to those who have completed the course successfully.

The Common Hospital Training

9.—The pre-clinical training should be followed by a common hospital training of an essentially practical character, which should carry the student up to the standard required of the Enrolled Nurse. This should occupy 69 weeks, the pre-clinical and common hospital training together covering a period of approximately two years (including an allowance of 12 weeks for vacations).

10.—The content of the common hospital training in a general hospital should be as follows :—

(i) Medicine : Out-patient departments and medical wards, including the psychosomatic approach to medicine, dermatology and the care of the chronic sick.

(ii) Surgery : Out-patient department, surgical wards and operating theatre, including gynaecology, orthopaedic surgery, ophthalmic surgery and surgery of the ear, nose and throat.

(iii) The work of the Casualty Department.

(iv) Paediatrics : Out-patient departments and sick children's wards.

11.—A total period of 53 weeks should be devoted to Medicine and Surgery, the minimum time allocated to each department being 15 weeks. Of the remaining 16 weeks, 12 should be allocated to Paediatrics and four to the Casualty Department. An equal division of time between Medicine and Surgery is the ideal, and the period devoted to each of these subjects should be longer than 15 weeks whenever possible. This period is suggested merely as the bare minimum.

12.—Where necessary, the students should be transferred to a children's hospital for 12 weeks for the training in Paediatrics.

13.—The common hospital training should be provided also in paediatric training schools. These schools should continue to recruit their own students, who should be transferred for 12 weeks, on an exchange basis, to a general hospital.

14.—Suitable mental hospitals, the major isolation hospitals and sanatoria should be included among the parent hospitals in the scheme of common training, the students being transferred as necessary to associated hospitals for training in paediatrics and additional training in medical and surgical nursing. The arrangements must be flexible and should aim at a minimum of migration.

15.—Students should be examined at the end of the two years' common training. The examination should be held under the auspices of the General Nursing Councils but reports on practical ability from the parent hospital should be taken into account. A student who passes the examination should be awarded a certificate and accorded the status and title of " Nurse " (her statutory designation being " Enrolled Nurse ") whether or not she intends to undertake a more advanced training. She should be regarded as qualified for nursing employment under supervision.

16.—As an exception to the general rule of a common training, the Tuberculosis Association Certificate should continue to be available to students who, because of physical disability, are unable to undertake a general training ; and also, as a temporary measure, to able-bodied candidates who have not received the common training.

The Third Year of Basic Training

17.—For students proceeding beyond the first two years of training there should be a further year's course leading to an examination qualifying for State Registration. Practical training should be combined with more advanced theoretical instruction in the third year.

18.—The content of the third year's course for a student whose parent hospital is a general or a paediatric hospital should be as follows, the order in which the subjects are taken being optional :—

(i) Psychiatry .. .. .. 12 weeks
(Training and residence in a mental hospital.)

(ii) Infectious Diseases and Tuberculosis.. .. .. .. 12 weeks
(Training and residence in a hospital for infectious diseases and a sanatorium.)

(iii) Obstetrics .. .. .. (Ante-natal and post-natal clinics. The normal puerperium.)	6 weeks
(iv) General Training .. .. (Completion of general training in the Parent Hospital.)	12 weeks
(v) Public Health .. .. .. (Introduction to the field, including health visiting and district nursing.)	4 weeks
Vacations	6 weeks
Total	52 weeks

Specialisation

19.—The certificate issued by the qualifying body at the end of the three years of basic training —whether the parent hospital has been a general or a special hospital—should be in respect of the general training, and a diploma in any special branch of nursing should be awarded only to the nurse who has undergone further training after State Registration. Suitable post-registration diploma courses should be provided for those nurses who wish to become specialists.

Male Nurses

20.—In principle, the whole scheme of training should be regarded as applying to male as well as to female nurses ; and, in all appropriate conditions, male nurses should be eligible, equally with female nurses, for promotion to posts of responsibility.

ADDENDUM BY THE BRITISH HOSPITALS ASSOCIATION

The British Hospitals Association is in agreement with the proposal that pre-clinical nursing training should be included within a general educational course for girls at grammar schools on reaching age 16, to which reference is made in paragraph 7.

The Association, however, does not consider that this recommendation goes far enough if the needs of the nursing profession are in fact to be met, since examination of the figures shows that nurses cannot be recruited in sufficient numbers from this source alone.

It is understood that the total number of girls leaving school annually is approximately 250,000. Of these only 14,000 leave grammar schools at the age of 17/18 ; a further 25,000 leave secondary grammar schools at age 16/17 ; and no fewer than 210,000 leave secondary modern schools at the age of 15 plus.

The first category (comprising the 14,000) has to meet the demands not only of the nursing profession but also of the teaching and other professions requiring a high educational standard which therefore substantially recruit from this field.

Seeing, however, that this first category is hopelessly inadequate to meet the full demands of the various professions, all of them must also draw heavily upon the second category (of 25,000 who leave at age 16/17). In consequence, and with the difficulty of " bridging the gap," there is but a small residue from this source with which to increase recruitment to the nursing profession unless schemes can be devised which will enable a larger proportion of these girls to combine partial employment, e.g., in day nurseries, clinics, nursery schools, etc., with partial continuation of general education and pre-clinical nursing training. As a fact some, but all too few, authorities have experimented along these lines with results which fully justify development over the whole country. In this respect the position of this second category (the 25,000) is closely allied with that of the third (the 210,000 who leave at age 15 plus).

School leavers in this third category for the most part find full-time employment from age 15 plus onwards, and by the time they have reached age 18 either are loath to give up remunerative occupation, in which they have prospects of further advancement, or regard their employment as a means of living until marriage. In either case there is little inducement for them to undertake a completely new training for a new profession.

From this it is clear that the key to the problem is to provide schemes whereby suitable girls in this category can, as an alternative to securing immediate full-time employment, be provided with partial employment—e.g., in day nurseries, clinics, nursery schools, etc.—together with continuation of general education including pre-clinical nursing training (as, for example, in day continuation schools, the pre-clinical training being linked, wherever possible, with a hospital Preliminary Training School) so as to give them sufficient education to pass the entrance and subsequent nursing examinations and at the same time secure their interest in nursing as a career.

The very important source of supply provided by secondary modern schools must no longer be neglected and the interest of as many girls as possible must be stimulated in the nursing profession if the urgent problem of the shortage of nurses is to be effectively countered.

The Association feels that these proposals merit serious and urgent consideration on a national basis by the Minister of Health and the Minister of Education jointly, since they afford a very wide field for experimentation within the limits of local factors and circumstances, and have already been put into operation successfully in varying forms by the authorities in some areas.

PRELIMINARY TRAINING SCHOOLS for STUDENT NURSES

Universal Need

1.—The Royal College of Nursing has long held the view that a period of time spent in a Preliminary Training School should be an integral part of the training of a nurse. With this principle the British Hospitals Association is in entire agreement.

2.—Every hospital recognised as a nurse-training school by the General Nursing Council should have Preliminary Training School facilities, in order to provide the amenities and the preparatory training which thus alone can be obtained.

3.—Until quite recently, individual Preliminary Training Schools have for the most part existed in connection with the larger training schools throughout the country; but a recent letter from the General Nursing Council to hospital authorities, emphasising the desirability of setting up such schools, together with offers of financial assistance from King Edward's Hospital Fund for London and the Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust; have stimulated interest in this subject throughout the country.

Primary Objects

4.—The principal object of the preliminary course is to enable the student nurse to obtain a grounding in the essential scientific subjects and elementary practice, including terminology, without the added and concurrent strain of being initiated in the practical aspects of nursing in the hospital wards. Another object is to enable the hospital authorities to judge whether the student is likely to be suitable for training, and to enable the student to judge whether she is still anxious to take up a nursing career after this preliminary period.

The course should be so arranged that the student is introduced gradually, and in the right atmosphere, to ward practice and her contacts with the patient. This should be accomplished by preliminary visits to the wards and other suitable departments, the student during these visits not being used as a unit of the ward staff.

Thus the student acquires some knowledge of elementary nursing before she handles the patient; at the same time the risk of inconvenience to the patient is minimised, and the ward sister is relieved of concern as to the student nurse's immediate usefulness.

† This memorandum was first published in 1943, and was revised in 1944.

Methods of Establishment

5.—The Sister Tutor Section of the Royal College of Nursing favours the establishment of so-called Central Preliminary Training Schools, which appear to be in essence similar to existing examples of what are called " Group Schools " but would be conceived on a larger scale. They might possibly be related to future developments connected with the regional co-ordination of hospital services, and a corresponding co-ordination of facilities for nursing training. It is felt, however, that provision of Preliminary Training Schools of this type are best regarded as within the range of long term policy rather than of immediate practical politics.

The memorandum of the Sister Tutor Section of the Royal College of Nursing containing detailed recommendations is, however, attached to this memorandum for information as an appendix.

6.—Much can be learnt from experience of existing practice. Three alternative methods are in use :—

(i) First, there is the large hospital which runs its own very fully equipped Preliminary Training School; this, in some cases, is adjacent to the hospital and, in others, may be some distance removed from it. In some cases, hospitals affiliated to the large hospital for nurse-training, or other hospitals, are by arrangement permitted to use the facilities of the school.

(ii) Some smaller hospitals have their own self-contained Preliminary Training Schools. It would, however, be fair to assume that the smaller the annual intake of candidates, the greater the economic difficulty; a glance at the requirements suggested by the Sister Tutor Section of the Royal College of Nursing (see appendices) will suffice to show that a fully equipped school, as judged by their standards, could not be economically provided in the case of a very small hospital, unless the arrangements permit of sharing the facilities provided for preliminary training with the facilities provided for the instruction of student nurses undergoing training in the hospital.

(iii) There is a third alternative to which a good deal of attention is being directed at the present time. A number of smaller hospitals recognised as training schools, but not necessarily affiliated to each other for purposes of nurse training, agree to form themselves into a group for the sole purpose of establishing a joint Preliminary Training School. It would appear that no exceptional difficulties need be encountered in regard to the joint management, the provision of staff and equipment, the ratio of students entered by each participating hospital, or in regard to assurance that students entered by a participating hospital will be returned to that hospital from the joint Preliminary Training School in due course.

7.—Local conditions, circumstances and requirements must dictate which of the three alternatives is employed by a particular hospital as most suitable for its needs. It is well, however, to bear in mind that the situation must, in some degree, be governed by the feasibility of providing the necessary facilities under economic, as well as satisfactory, conditions.

8.—The committee, on these grounds, has purposely refrained from making recommendations in detail, and has preferred to confine this memorandum to the discussion of points of principle and broad lines of guidance.

Accommodation

9.—The accommodation must be adequate for lectures, for tutorial classes, for private study—including library facilities—and for practical work in the various subjects, which include nursing, cookery and elementary science. In addition there should be adequate accommodation and facilities for recreation, and also for physical training.

10.—It will be noticed that emphasis is laid throughout on the adequacy of the accommodation. This can only be determined in relation to the intake of students, and the extent of the existing facilities available for the Preliminary Training School. This, in turn, is determined, among other things, by the location of the Preliminary Training School.

It is not recommended that rooms should be used for multiple purposes. For instance, a lounge combining facilities for physical training would not be conducive to an atmosphere of rest; the use of the Board Room for teaching purposes might at times result in curtailment or interruption of studies.

11.—Due regard must also be paid to the adequacy of the offices and accommodation for the students, and such of the staff as may be resident.

Length of Course and Curriculum

12.—Present practice is to arrange for a term of from 8 to 12 weeks; in most cases contact with the wards is included, but in some cases this is not so. The committee RECOMMENDS that a course of 12 weeks is suitable; and that, in addition to the undermentioned curriculum of lectures and practical work, it should provide for periods during which the students are, under supervision of the tutorial staff, introduced to the work of the hospital in the wards and other departments considered suitable.

The committee makes no recommendation as to whether the contact with the hospital should be in concentrated form at the end of the course, or should be at intervals throughout, as it is realised that this must, in many cases, be dictated by the conditions obtaining at the particular hospital, including the location of the Preliminary Training School. Where there is a free choice, the committee favours the method of spreadover.

13.—The degree of proficiency and the extent of the basic training which a candidate should achieve in a Preliminary Training School is related to the arrangements for her general training on entry to the hospital as a student nurse. It is, however, also necessary to determine the extent of the proficiency required in relation to the length of the Preliminary Training School course. An indication of proficiency level for a course of 12 weeks duration is given in the Sister Tutors' memorandum appended.

Lectures

14.—Lectures should include the following subjects:—Anatomy and Physiology, Hygiene and Public Health, Theory of Nursing (elementary), Practical Nursing, First Aid, Elementary Bacteriology, Elementary Science, Sickroom Cookery, Ethics of Nursing and History of Nursing.

The Sister Tutors' memorandum contains recommendations as to the appropriate number of lectures in each case.

Practical Work

15.—Practical work should include elementary domestic science, practical work arising from the lectures, contact with the hospital wards (see paragraph 12 above) and visits for the purpose of instruction and general knowledge, e.g., to technical museums, clinics—such as child welfare—factories, milk sterilising plants, sewage disposal farms, etc.

Examinations

16.—An examination should be taken by the students at the end of the course, no lecturer or tutor examining in the subjects which she has taught.

The Sister Tutor Section recommends that the examiners for theoretical Anatomy and Physiology should be members of the medical staff.

Staff and Intake of Students

17.—The arrangements as to the teaching staff of a Preliminary Training School must, to some extent, depend upon the size of the school; as to whether it is so located that it must function as an entirely separate unit; or whether it may be convenient to consider the staffing arrangements in relation to the general provision made for the training of student nurses on entry to the hospital; and also, as to whether the whole of the curriculum is to be undertaken by the hospital's own tutorial staff, or whether for some subjects specialist teachers will be engaged, e.g., for elementary science, sickroom cookery and dietetics.

It is recommended that the ratio of teaching staff to students should be so regulated as to obviate the classes being too large, especially for practical work.

Equipment

18.—The equipment required depends, in some measure, upon the location of the suggested Preliminary Training School in relation to the hospital. The list of equipment proposed by the Sister Tutor Section is for a Central Preliminary Training School (Appendix B), and is comprehensive and exhaustive; we would, however, commend their recommendations as a basis.

Physical Training

19.—The Committee lays particular emphasis on the importance of physical training in the Preliminary Training School period, so that students are appropriately prepared for the physical strain of ward work. Hospitals which have paid attention to this item have proved its worth in helping their student nurses to cope with the strenuousness of ward work, particularly in the first few weeks. It has made a marked contribution to the elimination of wastage by abandonment of training, which is known to be so prevalent, particularly among nurses in their first year of training.

Hospital Committees on Nursing Training

20.—It is recommended that in every hospital which is recognised as a nurse-training school, the Board of Management should appoint an Education Committee (or Sub-Committee) to act, subject to the direction of the Board, in an advisory capacity on matters connected with nursing education in the school of nursing, including the Preliminary Training School. The establishment of such a committee is desirable in the interests of nursing education and the part played by the individual hospital therein. It will generally be found most helpful if this committee comprises representatives from the hospital Board and the medical staff, the matron and sister tutor (senior), and includes—if necessary by co-option—a representative of the local education authority, and a representative of the Headmistresses' Association in the locality.

Joint Preliminary Training Schools

21.—(a) Management

In the case of a Joint Preliminary Training School, the Managing Committee should be composed on similar lines and normally comprise representation (which may usefully include the secretary and matron) from each of the participating hospitals. Provision should, in addition, be made for the superintending sister tutor to attend proceedings of the committee.

(b) Finance

It will generally be found convenient to base the cost of maintaining the school on a per capita payment from each participating hospital on an agreed basis, e.g., per place reserved or per student sent.

Appendix A.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF NURSING MEMORANDUM on Central Preliminary Training Schools drawn up by the Sister Tutor Section

The Sister Tutor Section of the Royal College of Nursing is strongly in favour of the establishment of Preliminary Training Schools, where the introductory period of the nurse's training may be carried out.

In view of the fact that there is likely to be a reorganisation of nurse-training in the future—especially in relation to the recommendations of the Horder Reconstruction Committee on Nurse Education, and the Government's plan for a National Health Service—the Section particularly recommends that attention be given to the establishment of Central Preliminary Training Schools, situated in a pivotal position in areas selected to carry out the wider basic training and Regional Nurse Training Scheme. It is suggested that these be of two types :—

(1) Preliminary Training Schools already established in large training schools enlarged to accept, by agreement, candidates from one or more smaller training schools in the vicinity, possibly affiliated hospitals, or hospitals with which the larger school training may be associated under any approved scheme of training.

(2) Independent Central Preliminary Training Schools housed in separate buildings, and serving a number of hospitals in selected areas, the schools being situated as centrally as possible to enable students to visit any chosen hospital when necessary. It is envisaged that these may be set up separately or jointly with voluntary and/or municipal authorities, and might possibly, in the future, be administered by the participating training schools, in conjunction with the Health and Education authorities, thus linking up with Pre-Nursing Courses on the lines suggested in the Board of Education leaflet No. 1568.

General Points Regarding (1)

The average Preliminary Training School attached to the large approved nurse-training schools usually admits 12-20 candidates for a term of 8-12 weeks, for which a lecture room, practical classroom, cookery demonstration classroom, together with scientific equipment and special teaching staff, are generally provided.

This would appear to be wasteful for such a small group of students, whereas the enlargement, as suggested, of such a school would have the advantage of utilising to the full the existing equipment and of economising in qualified teaching staff, of whom there is a great shortage at present.

Given additional living and sleeping accommodation, and a larger lecture room, 30-40 candidates could be taken in each term ; the entire group attending theoretical lectures, but dividing into smaller groups for practical subjects such as nursing, bandaging, invalid cookery and science demonstrations.

General Points Regarding (2)

Independent Preliminary Training Schools housed in separate buildings should be commodious enough to accommodate a minimum of 40 students, with room for expansion, and provided with all the equipment essential to sound practical and theoretical teaching.

GENERAL AND SPECIFIC RECOMMENDATIONS

The following suggestions as to the organisation and management, content of curriculum, equipment and accommodation, may be useful in assisting hospital authorities contemplating the establishment of Central or Group Preliminary Training Schools, or the enlargement of existing ones, and in securing a more uniform standard throughout the country :—

1. Intake of Students

The Preliminary Training School should accommodate approximately 40-80 students at a time, smaller units being uneconomical.

2. Selection of Candidates

The matron of each participating hospital should choose her own candidates, who must conform to the required educational standards or have passed the test examination of the General Nursing Council, if re-introduced, or a similar examination together with an intelligence test. The minimum age of entry should be 18 years.

3. Period of Training

The period of instruction in the Preliminary Training School should approximate in length to the school term, i.e., 12-13 weeks, the minimum being 12 weeks, and the terms should be arranged to coincide with those of the school year, each term providing for a new group of students. Between terms, the teaching staff should be given the opportunity of making contact with parent hospitals for post-graduate study, and in order to keep abreast of modern methods of treatment. Holidays could also be taken during this period.

If the students are undertaking a four-year training, the period spent in the Preliminary Training School should be included in that time, but not in the case of students undertaking a three-year training, as two years and nine months do not allow sufficient time to cover the syllabus for the Final State Examination.

4. Proficiency Level

Given an adequate basic educational standard (say Matriculation or School Certificate) candidates should be able to achieve the proficiency level required for Part A of the Preliminary State Examination.

5. Curriculum

	No. of Lectures
Anatomy and Physiology	40
Hygiene and Public Health	20
Theory of Nursing (elementary)	24
Practical Nursing	24
First Aid	10
Elementary Bacteriology	4
Elementary Science	8
Sickroom Cookery	12
Ethics of Nursing	4
History of Nursing	6

In addition, elementary domestic science and practical work, including the introduction of the student nurse to the routine work of the wards of her hospital (it should be emphasised that in no circumstances should the student nurse be used as a unit of the ward staff), together with visits to museums, clinics and other places of interest.

Lectures on the social and preventive aspect of medicine could, with advantage, be included, as also visits to patients' homes.

6. Examinations

An examination should be taken by the students at the end of the course, for which the examiners should be as follows :—

(i) Practical Work—the matron or senior sister tutor of the participating hospitals, in rotation.

(ii) Theoretical Anatomy and Physiology—a senior member of the medical staff of one of the hospitals.

(iii) Theoretical Hygiene and First Aid—the sister tutor of the participating hospitals, in rotation.

(iv) Cookery—if taken at the school, a dietitian from one of the hospitals or an outside examiner should be appointed. If taken outside the school, the authority arranging the classes will appoint the examiner.

7. Accommodation

Requirements :—

(i) one large classroom to accommodate all the students ;

(ii) one smaller classroom ;

(iii) one practical classroom of sufficient size to take classes of 12-15 for practical work ;

(iv) cookery classroom with sufficient equipment for cookery classes, unless this subject is taken outside the school by arrangement with the local education authorities ;

(v) one laboratory for science classes. If this subject is also taken outside the school, a small annexe to the practical classroom would be sufficient ;

(vi) one library with facilities for study ;

(vii) one recreation room which could be adapted for physical training, a course of which, undertaken by an appropriate instructor, would be an excellent preparation for the more strenuous work in a hospital ward ;

(viii) one quiet room ;

(ix) one office each for the superintendent sister and the warden-housekeeper, and one large office for the other sisters ; or each qualified sister tutor could have a desk in one of the classrooms, and one of the other sisters a desk in the library.

The following living accommodation would also be required :—

(i) the superintendent sister, who should be resident, should have her own flat, i.e., bedroom, sitting-room and bathroom ;

(ii) teaching staff, if resident, should each have a bed-sitting-room, or separate bedroom and sitting-room ;

(iii) the warden-housekeeper, who must be resident, should have her own bed-sitting-room or bedroom and sitting-room ;

(iv) separate study-bedrooms for each student nurse ;

(v) dining rooms for sisters and student nurses.

Other domestic accommodation should be similar to that provided in a modern nurses' home.

8. Staff

(a) Teaching and Administrative

The total number of permanent teaching staff required will depend on whether the whole of the instruction is to be undertaken by them, or whether it is preferable to engage specialist teachers for such subjects as elementary science, sickroom cookery and dietetics. The minimum for schools in which the whole of the teaching is undertaken by the members of the staff would be :—

(i) one superintendent sister, who must be a qualified sister tutor ;

(ii) one additional qualified sister tutor ;

(iii) one sister, not a sister tutor, preferably with two years' experience as a ward sister, for teaching practical nursing and bandaging, who might also act as warden ;

(iv) one warden, who may or may not be a trained nurse, if this work is not undertaken by the above sister.

(b) Domestic Staff

The domestic staff should be entirely responsible for the preparation and serving of the students' meals, the scrubbing and polishing of floors and heavy domestic work, but a large part of the cleaning of their own rooms would be undertaken by the students as part of their instruction in domestic work.

CENTRAL PRELIMINARY TRAINING SCHOOLS
LIST OF EQUIPMENT REQUIRED

Equipment

The equipment required depends on the number of students ; the following is suggested for a school of 40-60 students :—

Classroom

Teaching desk, desks, chairs, blackboard or wall slates,
Equipment cupboard,
Wall charts and diagrams,
Skeleton and disarticulated bones,
Anatomical models—trunk, head, eye, ear, etc.,
Microscopes, teaching slides and oil immersion lens,
Built-in film screen, epidiascope, cineprojector,
X-Ray viewing box,
Anatomical specimens.

Practical Nursing Classroom

One or two models (adult and infant) for practical demonstration purposes,
5 ward beds and one ward cot,

Practical Nursing Classroom—contd.

Mattresses and ward linen, pillows,
Mackintoshes.
5 ward lockers, 3 ward trolleys and screens,
3 bed-pans and covers (various), male and female urinals, bed-pan mops and forceps, etc.,
Sputum cup, sieve,
Hot-water bottles, funnels (glass and enamel varieties),
Feeding cups (various),
Baby's bottle and brush,
Water pillows, air rings, water bed and air bed,
Fracture boards, blocks, sandbags and cradles,
Bed rests and "heart table,"

Requisites for
- Care of back, mouth and head,
- Administration of medicines,
- Enemata—funnels, tubing, catheters,
- Poultices,
- Fomentations—surgical and medical,
- Dressings,
- Preparation of skin for operation,
- Urine testing—urinometer, specimen glasses, re-Agents, etc.,
- Oxygen administration,

Sterilising equipment,
Hypodermic syringes and needles (various),
Lotion bottles and measures,
Thermometers—clinical, food, lotion, bath and wall,
Charts, bed tickets, etc.,
Steam kettle and tent,
Inhalers,
Simple instruments,
Splints (various),
Bandages and bandaging models—head, legs, arms,
Bandage rollers.

Teaching Kitchen

Cooking stoves—gas, electric and fuel,
Gas rings,
Sinks,
Saucepans and stands, frying pans, fish kettles and steamer,
Baking tins, colanders and bowls,
Store bins, tubs and cans,
Knives—filleting, vegetable, large; spatulæ, fish slices, etc.,
Forks, spoons and wooden spoons,
Plates, dishes and basins,
Measure jugs, scales and weights, mincing machines,
Pastry and chopping boards, rolling pins, flour dredgers,
Strainers, wire sieves, graters, whisks and lemon squeezers,
Glass-ware and crockery (including moulds),
Piece pail and rubbish pail,

Teaching Kitchen—contd.

Cloths—basin, tea and glass,
Trays, tray cloths and table cloths,
Refrigerator.

Cleaning Materials

Brushes, brooms (hard and soft),
Washing bowls,
Zinc and enamelled pails,
Dusters, dustpans and dust sheets,
"Cleaning" boxes.

Laboratory

Demonstration bench with sink and gas,
6 gas jars and covers,
2 glass troughs,
2 bell jars with stoppers,
2 crucibles,
2 evaporating dishes,
2 beehive shelves,
2 large glass flasks (round),
2 small glass flasks (round),
Rubber corks with 1 and 2 holes to fit flasks,
Glass tubing, bungs,
2 thistle funnels,
2 ordinary funnels,
Rubber tubing (various sizes),
Glass connections,
2 graduated burettes,
2 pipettes, 1 cc. and 10 cc.,
1 retort,
1 retort stand, clamps,
2 measure cylinders, graduated 100 cc. and 250 cc.,
3 beakers,
Test tubes and rack,
Porous jars, to show diffusion,
Prisms, lens and holders,
Colours, disc,
Thermometers—centigrade and fahrenheit,
File and cork borers,
Tripod and asbestos gauze,
Balance and weights,
Hoffman's voltameter, Hygrometer.

Re-agents
- Acids, e.g. Hydrochloric acid,
- Alkalies, e.g. sodium hydroxide, liquor potassae,
- Soap solution,
- Permanganate of potassium crystals,
- Iron filings,
- Litmus solution,
- Phenolphthalein,
- Phosphorus, etc.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

1.—It is necessary to appreciate the objects which Nurses' Representative Councils are designed to fulfil before proceeding to questions of composition and procedure.

2.—The principal object is to enable the nursing staff freely to discuss matters connected with their work and efficiency, their comfort and their well-being. Matters of personal conduct or misdemeanour should not be discussed in the Nurses' Representative Council.

3.—The efficiency of the Nurses' Council in securing these objects depends not only upon its structure but upon its build-up from proper foundations. Thus :—

(i.) It must be clear that the formation of a Nurses' Representative Council is neither an act of disloyalty to the matron nor is the Council intended in any way to detract from or short-circuit the matron's authority.

(ii.) The council must be representative of all sections of the nursing staff. In order to ensure that the representatives of each section put forward views that are representative of the section as a whole, it is necessary to arrange that each category of the nursing staff has its own sectional committee (see paragraph 6 below). In this way members of the council will be able to put forward impersonally the views of the section they represent.

4.—In the procedure advocated in paragraph 4 of the Constitution regard has been paid to the fact that, particularly at the stage of initiating the council, nurses—and specially the junior student nurses—will have had little opportunity to appreciate the suitability of a particular candidate to represent them until they have met one another in their appropriate sectional committee.

5.—The question then arises as to whether or not the matron should be a member of the council. Relatively few Nurses' Representative Councils exist and the practice as to the presence or absence of the matron has varied. In some cases she has been an ex-officio member ; in others, she has been excluded from membership ; and in others again, the arrangement has provided that she might attend by invitation.

Despite the fact that matrons have successfully co-operated with their nursing staff by attending their council meetings, it is felt that on balance the presence of matrons at council meetings must inevitably have a restrictive effect. Provided that the considerations postulated in paragraph 3 above are clearly understood and that the procedure follows the lines set out in paragraph 6 below, it is felt that the matron should not ordinarily be a member of the council and should not attend meetings.

It is not, however, the intention of the committee that existing arrangements in respect of Nurses' Representative Councils of which the matron is already a member should be interfered with.

6.—It may be helpful to trace the whole build-up step by step.

The first step is the holding of meetings of each of the sectional committees for the discussion of matters concerning the section. (Each sectional committee comprises the whole of the nurses in each of the following categories :—

First year Student Nurses,
Second year Student Nurses,
Third year and Fourth year Student Nurses,
Staff Nurses,
Administrative, Ward and Departmental Sisters,
Assistant Nurses,

These sectional meetings are followed by a meeting of the council representative of the whole of the nursing staff.

A written list of the resulting recommendations, together with the names of those present and the sections represented, is then sent (or taken) by representatives of the council to the matron.

The matron is likely to find that many of the recommendations are of a comparatively trivial nature, though in the nurses' view of considerable importance to their efficiency or their well-being. With items of this kind the matron will wish and be able to deal immediately.

The remainder of the council's representations, of which the matron shall have received written note, will be referred to the appropriate hospital committee and the procedure outlined in paragraph 10 of the constitution is followed.

[It would be for the individual hospital to decide whether the whole of the recommendations (including those dealt with by the matron) arising from a particular meeting of the council are reported to the appropriate hospital committee for information or whether only the outstanding items are referred.]

It will be seen that in the constitution as recommended provision is made for the Nurses' Representative Council to appoint from their number representatives who may attend the appropriate hospital committee for the purpose of supporting any of their resolutions. In practice this would enable the committee, when necessary, to secure the attendance of representatives from the Nurses' Council before reaching its decision. The advantage of this is two-fold ; there can be no question in the mind of the nurses that their viewpoint has not been adequately brought to the notice of the committee, and the committee on its part has the opportunity, if it desires, of explaining fully to the nurses' representatives in the event of it being unable to accept a particular recommendation.

7.—There are two other important considerations in connection with the constitution of the council and its procedure to which reference should be made.

(i.) It will be seen from paragraph 8 of the constitution that matters of personal conduct or misdemeanour are excluded from discussion.

This recommendation is made on the assumption that the nursing staff is in the employ of the Governing Body and, further, that an individual nurse has the right of access to the appropriate committee in the event of her desiring to lodge a complaint or an appeal.

(ii.) It is important that the composition of the nurses' council should be such as to provide a reasonable balance between the trained staff and the staff in training. The representation suggested in the draft constitution is designed to preserve such a balance.

SUGGESTED FORM OF CONSTITUTION

Composition

1.—The Nurses' Representative Council should be elected annually and should consist of representatives of the various sections as follows (the numbers suggested are indicative only) :—

(a) Representatives elected by student nurses who have been in training for not more than one year counted from the date of their entry into the Preliminary Training School, say 3.

(b) Representatives elected by student nurses who have been in training for a period of

[Note (1).—The suggested form of constitution and numbers of representatives are primarily designed for a hospital of 300/700 beds.

Note (2).—For hospitals under 300 beds it may be necessary to reduce the proposed number of representatives of each group.

Note (3).—In the case of hospitals of, say, under 100 beds it may also be necessary to consider whether the constitution needs modification in any respects, i.e., in the case of the smallest hospitals by the whole or the majority of the nursing staff forming the council].

not more than two years counted from the date of their entry into the Preliminary Training School, say 3.

(c) Representatives elected by student nurses who have been in training for a period of two years or more from the date of their entry into the Preliminary Training School (i e., 3rd and 4th year student nurses), say 4.

(e) Representatives elected by the administrative, ward and departmental sisters, say 4.

(f) Representatives elected by assistant nurses on the basis of one representative to every complete number of twenty (20) on the staff, with a minimum of 1 representative.

2.—The matron should not be a member of the council and should not attend its meetings. She should, however, have the right to request the council to consider any matters of which she may give notice in writing.

3.—Representatives elected by the various sections should serve the full period of the council's year except where a representative of the student nurses completes her training and becomes a qualified staff nurse. She should in such a case be required to resign and a new representative should be elected. No qualified nurse should act as a representative of the nurses in training.

Election of Members of the Council

4.—Candidates for election as sectional representatives on the Nurses' Representative Council should be nominated in writing by not less than two nurses of the year and grade to which the candidate belongs (the previous consent of the nominee having been obtained). Every such nomination should be transmitted to the secretary of the appropriate sectional committee at least seven days before the meeting at which the elections will be made and the list of candidates should also be posted in the Nurses' Home. Additional nominations, if duly proposed and seconded, may be made at the meeting (the consent of the nominee being obtained) and in the event of the number of candidates exceeding the number of vacancies, the election would be made by ballot by the nurses in the section.

5.—After election a list of representatives should be posted in the Nurses' Home, and a list sent to the chief administrative officer and the matron.

Procedure

6.—The representatives should convene their appropriate sections of the nursing staff to meetings as often as is necessary and convey any resolutions or matters for discussion from their section to the council.

7.—The Nurses' Representative Council should meet from time to time not less often than every three months, in order to afford an opportunity for discussion of questions affecting the well-being and efficiency of the hospital from the point of view of the nursing staff.

8.—Subjects for discussion should be placed on the agenda paper for circulation at least seven days before each meeting. Matters of personal conduct or misdemeanour should not be discussed.

9.—Any recommendations of the council should be set down in writing and sent or conveyed by representatives of the council to the matron in the first place.

10.—The Nurses' Representative Council should be at liberty through the matron to make representations (which may be accompanied by copies of resolutions from any section) to the Nursing Committee* upon any matters of hospital management in which the nurses are concerned and with which the matron has, for any reason, been unable to deal to the satisfaction of the council.

11.—Items requested for inclusion on the agenda of the Nursing Committee* should be forwarded to the chief administrative officer and the matron not less than seven days before the meeting of the Nursing Committee.* Copies of statements or memoranda to be submitted to the Nursing Committee* should also be sent to the matron.

12.—The Nurses' Representative Council should in each year appoint two trained nurses (1 sister, and 1 staff nurse) and two student nurses who, when desired by the Nursing Committee,* may attend for the purpose of supporting any resolution of the council which is to be submitted for the consideration of the Nursing Committee.*

Meetings

13.—The Nurses' Representative Council should elect annually from among its members—

(a) A chairman who should preside at the meetings, and a deputy-chairman who should preside in the absence of the chairman.

(b) An honorary secretary who should keep a proper record of the proceedings in a minute book provided for the purpose. The minute book should be in the custody of the honorary secretary.

A quorum should be six members present.

The effective year of the council should be January 1st to December 31st.

CENTRAL BUREAU OF HOSPITAL INFORMATION

INCREASE OF SUBSCRIPTIONS BY MEANS OF SEVEN-YEAR COVENANTS*

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

Where subscriptions or donations are made by Deed of Covenant for seven years, with the Hospital Management Committee (or, in the case of a teaching hospital, with the Board of Governors ; or, in the case of a Scottish hospital, with the Board of Management), the provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1918, as adjusted by subsequent Finance Acts affecting covenanted subscriptions will continue to apply, i.e., the hospital Committee Board will be able to claim refund of Income Tax. The reason is that although the hospitals as such will be State Institutions, the new Committees or Boards, by virtue of the N.H.S. Acts, are constituted Trustees with legal corporate entity and are empowered to receive, hold and administer charitable gifts in accordance with Section 59 of the English Act (Section 58 of the Scottish Act).

The following Memorandum is therefore reprinted since it may be of interest to Hospital Management Committees and Boards of Governors.

Recovery of Income Tax

1.—By virtue of the Income Tax Act, 1918, and subsequent Finance Acts it is possible for a hospital to effect a considerable increase of its income by the recovery from the Inland Revenue Department of the income tax that has been paid by its subscribers in respect of their subscriptions. To enable a hospital to do this, however, it is necessary that each subscriber should enter into a legally binding contract to pay to the hospital an annual subscription of definite amount during a period of at least seven years.

2.—Seeing that the standard rate of income tax is at the present time 9*s*. in the £, and that the income tax recoverable is calculated on the gross value of the subscription to the hospital, the recovery of income tax by this method nearly doubles the value of the hospital's subscriptions without any additional cost to its subscribers.

3.—These agreements are usually drawn in the form of covenants to pay a definite amount for seven years (if the subscriber lives so long), but terminable in any case by death, so that a subscriber's estate will not be liable to continue the subscription after he has died. If so desired, however, the agreement may be made for seven years certain (or any longer period), binding the subscriber's estate.

4.—The covenant can be made dependent on the happening of almost any event, provided that the event need not necessarily take place within seven years.

5.—To give a concrete example : the subscriber covenants (in the proper form) to pay to the hospital out of his taxed income an annual subscription of, say, £5 during a period of seven years. The hospital can then claim from the Inland Revenue another £4 1s. 9d. in respect of that subscription each year—so long as income tax remains at 9*s.* in the £. The subscription appears in the hospital's subscription list as £9 1*s.* 9*d.*

* We are indebted to the National Council of Social Service for several suggestions as to details of practice which have been found to facilitate the working of this scheme.

Procedure

6.—The deed of covenant must first be executed by the subscriber; it must have a seal attached to it before signature (an ordinary adhesive seal is sufficient); and the signature of the subscriber must be witnessed.

7.—The document must be stamped with an impressed (not adhesive) stamp, and for this purpose it may be sent to Somerset House, Strand, W.C.2, or presented at a Post Office. If not stamped within 30 days of the date of its execution, Somerset House can impose a penalty up to £10 on its subsequent presentation for stamping. If not stamped, no income tax will be recoverable from the Inland Revenue.

8.—The stamp duty is at the rate of 2*s.* 6*d.* per £100 of the total net amount (i.e., excluding the amount of income tax to be recovered) that will be receivable by the hospital during the whole period; e.g., if the covenant is to pay £5 5*s.* annually for seven years, the stamp duty will be payable on 35 guineas and will be 1*s.* 3*d.* See Note II at end. The hospital itself usually bears the cost of this stamp.

9.—Shortly before the first subscription payable under the covenant falls due, a request for payment should be forwarded to the subscriber (with a form of banker's order, if desired) accompanied by a form of "Certificate of Deduction of Income Tax," Form No. R. 185, to be signed by the subscriber and returned to the hospital. See Form 3 (below). Certificate Forms may be obtained from the local Inland Revenue Officer or from the Controller of Inland Revenue, Charity Claims Department, London.

10.—The claim for the recovery of income tax may then be made in the usual way on Form No. 68 (for a first claim) or Form No. 235 (for subsequent claims). The first claim under each deed of covenant must be accompanied by the deed itself, and every claim must be accompanied by a "Certificate of Deduction of Income Tax," signed by the subscriber.

11.—If the subscriber is willing to continue the payments in the same manner after the end of the period covered by the covenant, a new covenant must be entered into. The old covenant cannot be allowed to run on from year to year.

12.—As regards the Deed of Covenant, it is suggested that, before this is sent to the subscriber, the hospital should affix to it an ordinary adhesive seal and fill in all blanks in the deed so far as possible, so that there may be nothing for the subscriber to do beyond signing it and having his signature witnessed. It is also recommended that, when the deed has been received back by the hospital, a copy of it should be sent to the subscriber to be kept by him for reference in case any question arises on it.

13.—Care must be taken that the date of cheque, or the date of payment by bankers' order, is later than the date of signing the deed of covenant.

14.—The form of certificate of deduction of income tax should also have all the details filled in before it is sent to the subscriber, as he is most unlikely to make the entries correctly.

15.—If many of these covenants are entered into, it will be found a saving of time in the long run to keep a special register of them with columns for Serial Number of Covenant. Date of Covenant, Name and Address of Subscriber, Net amount Payable under the Covenant, Date when Due. The deeds should be registered in order of the date when the subscriptions are payable, a different page being reserved for each month.

Covenants by Companies

16.—There is nothing to prevent a business company from entering into a covenant to pay a subscription to a hospital, but the hospital will only be able to recover income tax in respect of it if the payments are in fact made out of taxed income.

17.—If such a subscription is allowed by the Inland Revenue to be treated as a trade expense for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the profits of the company, then that company will not pay income tax on it, and consequently there will be no income tax for the hospital to recover.

Difficulties that may Arise

18.—The legal effect of a seven-year covenant is that for that period the amount of the subscription ceases to form part of the subscriber's income and becomes part of the income of the hospital, the subscriber being in the position of a trustee. But trustees are required to deduct income tax at the full standard rate from income received by them before paying it over to the beneficiaries. Consequently, even though the subscriber is not personally liable to pay tax at the full standard rate on his own income, he will be required to pay this rate on any income he passes on to a hospital under a covenant. The result is that difficulties arise in practice in the circumstances mentioned below, and covenants should not be accepted in such cases without the position being fully explained to the intending covenanter.

Subscribers with Small Incomes

19.—If the subscriber's income is small, so that he is only liable to income tax at a reduced rate or is entirely exempt, he will still have to pay over to the Inland Revenue income tax at the full standard rate on the amount of his subscription under a covenant.

Income from Overseas Investments

20.—Whenever a subscriber derives his income from overseas, and for any reason it is not charged with the full rate of English income tax (e.g., where it has already paid a Dominion income tax), he will have to repay to the Inland Revenue the difference between the full rate of tax on his subscription and the amount which the Inland Revenue has already received thereon.

Subscribers whose Whole Income is Earned

21.—Where a subscriber's whole income is earned, the Inland Revenue deducts the amount of his covenanted subscription (plus income tax thereon) from his total income, and only allows him a deduction of one-tenth (for earned income) on the balance. The effect of this is that, while the hospital can recover from the Inland Revenue income tax on the subscription at the full standard rate, the subscriber will have to repay one-tenth of this amount to the Inland Revenue himself.

FORM 1.

SUGGESTED LETTER OF INVITATION TO SUBSCRIBERS.

DEAR SIR,

As you are already so good as to send us an annual subscription of £5, we are writing to invite you to enable us to transform your subscription into one of £9 1s. 9d. without the need for any payment by yourself beyond the continuance of your present subscription.

If you are willing to sign the enclosed form of covenant undertaking to continue your present subscription of £5 for the next seven years, the hospital will be able to recover from the Inland Revenue Department another £4 1s. 9d. each year (being the amount of income tax you will already have paid in respect of your subscription). The amount of your subscription in the list of our Subscribers will then appear as £9 1s. 9d. This agreement is terminable by death, so that your estate would not be liable for subsequent payments.

If, however, the whole of your income is earned, or if for any reason sufficient of your income is not taxed at the full standard rate (of 9s. in the £) to cover the amount of your subscriptions under seven-year covenants and other charges on your income, then you should ask for a further explanation before entering into this covenant.

If you are so good as to adopt the above proposal, will you kindly fill in and sign the enclosed form of covenant, being sure to have your signature witnessed, and return it to me.

Yours faithfully,

SUGGESTED LETTER TO SUBSCRIBER TO ACCOMPANY FIRST CERTIFICATE OF DEDUCTION OF INCOME TAX.

DEAR SIR,

I am writing to remind you that you have been so good as to sign an agreement to continue your subscription of £5 to this Hospital during seven years, and that your subscription has usually been paid about the beginning of next month.

Before the Hospital can recover the income tax on this subscription the Inland Revenue Department requires a Certificate of Deduction of Income Tax to be signed by you.

Will you kindly fill in and sign the enclosed certificate and return it to me with your subscription.

A form of banker's order is also enclosed in case you care to make use of it, and so save yourself further trouble.

* This form is not applicable and should not be used where Income Tax has not in fact been deducted from the gross amount payable (e.g., because the payer has undertaken not to deduct tax).

This form should be signed by the person deducting the Tax and responsible to account for such Tax to the Revenue. The signature of the Claimant's solicitor or other agent is not sufficient.

† In the case of property, its situation, including Street Address (if any), Parish, County, and names of Occupiers must be distinctly stated.

The above form has been filled in in italics to show what entries are considered suitable. The figures refer to an actual subscription of £10, with income tax at 9s. in the £.

NOTE I.

Income Tax Recoverable with Standard Rate of 9*s.* in £.

While the standard rate of income tax is 9*s.* in the £, the amount of income tax recoverable by a hospital from the Inland Revenue in respect of a seven-year covenant will be nine-elevenths of the amount of the subscription that is paid in cash by the subscriber.

The following table shows the amounts recoverable in a number of cases, and from these the amount recoverable in respect of a subscription of any other amount can easily be arrived at.

Subscription paid in Cash.	Income tax Recoverable.	Subscription paid in Cash.	Income Tax Recoverable.
1	16 4	1 1 0	17 2

50	40 18 2	52 10 0	42 19 1
100	81 16 4	105 0 0	85 18 2

The amount recoverable in respect of any subscription and with any standard rate of income tax can always be found by the formula £$\frac{ax}{20 - x}$, where a represents the subscription paid in cash (in pounds), and x the standard rate of income tax (in shillings). For example, if the subscription paid in cash is 50 Guineas and the standard rate of income tax is 8*s.* 3*d.* in the £, then the amount of income tax recoverable by the hospital will be £$\frac{52\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{4}}{20 - 8\frac{1}{4}}$ = £36 17*s.* 2*d.*

APPOINTMENT SYSTEM FOR OUT-PATIENTS

N.B.—This memorandum is reprinted because it is thought that the information it contains is of continuing interest, but it is possible that modifications may become necessary in the light of experience of new administrative arrangements under the National Health Service.

1. The terms of the Enquiry, addressed to all voluntary hospitals of Great Britain in 1946, were as follows :—

(a) If an Appointment System for Out-patients is used in the hospital, does it as a whole fulfil all requirements or not ?

(b) In what does it consist, and is any alteration contemplated ?

2. Replies. Information upon which the following conclusions are based has been derived from 38 hospitals of all kinds.

3. Conclusions from the Enquiry. There was little divergence of opinion as regards the principle or practice of such a system, either between London and the Provinces or between the varying types and sizes of hospital, with the result that it has been possible to correlate all opinions into a series of General Conclusions.

(a) " Appointment " System is a misnomer, since all systems are really based on the allotment of periods of time to a set number of patients, but such a system was agreed to be an advantage to the patient, the medical staff, and the administration. In only one hospital had patients declined to keep appointments and had caused the system to be abandoned. It must be emphasised that the closer the relationship between patient, general practitioner and hospital the more smoothly does such a system function.

(b) The essentials of success are :—

1. Careful preparation and advertisement (in the local Press, etc.) coupled with the securing of the co-operation of the general practitioners in the district of the hospital. A letter to the individual doctors should be sent, stressing the advantages of the scheme (see Appendix II).
2. The punctuality of the medical staff. It should be borne in mind that a proper number of staff is necessary to obtain punctuality and that only experience can decide the number.
3. One or two special clerks.
4. Careful estimation, based on experience, of the numbers of patients for each individual clinic to be seen in each period, so ensuring both the continuity of the clinic and the avoidance of undue waiting time.

(c) The advantages are :—

1. The patient's convenience is greatly enhanced and that of his employer also.
2. There is an even spread of work over the day.
3. Clinical notes and X-ray photographs can be collected together beforehand.
4. In fracture clinics plaster can be changed and new X-rays taken before the clinic opens, so saving time.
5. The medical staff can control the number of patients to be seen each day (emergencies excepted).
6. On days when country buses run to the town, the town patients need not be booked.

Note.—In the case of teaching hospitals, new cases can be selected for teaching purposes by reason of the fact that the notes of the general practitioners can often be examined prior to the patients' arrival at the time which has been arranged. It is true that it is not always possible to arrange for the selection of cases for teaching at the beginning of a session

4. Suggested Method of Operating an Appointment System.

The following is based on views of all the hospitals supplying information.

N.B.—The forms mentioned correspond with the specimens shown in Appendix I.

NEW PATIENTS

There is no general rule that new patients are seen before old patients. New patients generally are expected to arrive a quarter to a half hour before seeing the doctor or surgeon, in order that registration, preparation of Case Record papers, interviews with Almoner, etc., may be completed before the patient is seen by the doctor or surgeon.

Stages.	Form	Details.
1. Asking for an appointment.	A	Patient or doctor requests an appointment by telephone, letter, or by sending the Form, a stock of which is kept by the General Practitioner. A " doctor's letter " is sent in advance to the consultant or is sent with the patient.
2. Appointment is made.	B	The Hospital Appointments Clerk sends details of the appointment to the patient. When the " doctor's letter " arrives the front page of the Notes and Index card is completed.
3. Arrival at hospital (see " Old Patients," para. 1).	B	Patients present Form B as " Clinic Card," and may be handed Case papers.
4. Notification of appointments made to medical staff.	C	1 Loose-leaf Register (or bound book with detachable leaves) per clinic is used by the Appointments Clerk to enter the appointments in " blocks," so many patients per quarter hour or other suitable period. The books are either distributed to clinics before their time of opening or they may be printed so that copies can be sent to the medical staff, Sister-in-Charge of out-patients, and Almoner, while the book is retained by the Appointments Clerk. It is usually more convenient to use separate books for each day the clinic is held.
5. The patient is seen by medical staff.	B	The patient carries his " Clinic Card " with him. This may obviate sitting in the waiting hall in sequence.
6. The doctor or surgeon wishes to see patient again.	D	The patient takes the form given to him by the doctor or surgeon to the Appointments Clerk. Generally, appointments may be made up to 1 year in advance.
7. Another appointment is made.	B	The patient is either given a fresh card or the date of the next appointment is stamped on the original card.

OLD PATIENTS

1. The time when the old patient attends need not be so far in advance of that at which he is to be seen by the medical staff as in the case of the new patient, since Case Papers are already prepared and no interview with the Almoner may take place.

2. In-patients. Appointment for out-patient treatment may be made by the Ward Sister previously to the patient's discharge. If he is a former out-patient his original Clinic card may conveniently be used.

Notes.—1. Patients who attend at the hospital without an Appointment may be fitted in at the end of a Session unless in need of emergency treatment.

2. Fracture, Ophthalmic and Diabetic Clinics present the greatest difficulties, which can be overcome only with adequate medical staff.

APPENDIX II. LETTER TO GENERAL PRACTITIONERS

DEAR SIR, ... HOSPITAL

The Committee of.....Hpl., after consultation with the medical staff, has decided to adopt a system of group appointments for Out-patients attending the Consultative Clinics which will operate from.....

A supply of forms is enclosed herewith, together with envelopes, and it is requested that you will, when referring patients to the Hospital, either post the form direct to the Hospital, or hand it to the patient as heretofore and instruct him to post it to the Hospital. On receipt of this communication an appointment card will be sent direct from the Hospital to the patient, stating the day and time on which to attend.

Where there is insufficient time for the form to be sent to the Hospital by post it may be delivered personally by the patient, or if necessary, an appointment may be made by telephoning to the Out-patient Department Appointments Clerk.

Appointments for patients making other than their first attendance will be made by the patients before leaving the Hospital.

The Committee are confident that they will receive your co-operation in this endeavour to improve the organisation of the Hospital and to avoid unnecessary waiting by patients.

Further supplies of forms and envelopes will be supplied immediately upon request.

Yours faithfully,

PERSONAL SUPPORT FOR HOSPITALS IN THE NATIONAL HEALTH SERVICE

IS IT NEEDED? WHAT FORM SHOULD IT TAKE?

1.—Present supporters of hospitals are asking whether their help will be needed (and if so, in what form) after the 5th July next—the "appointed day" when the National Health Service comes into operation. Hospital Managements in their turn are seeking guidance of the British Hospitals Association.

It is generally known that in the National Health Service the hospitals will be transferred to the Crown, and the full maintenance costs of the hospitals will be met from the Exchequer. Does this mean that all those who in the past, by gift of money or service, have interested themselves in the work of hospitals and their patients should say to themselves next July: "The State has taken over: there is nothing more for us to do"?

2.—The National Health Service Acts lay on the Minister of Health and the Secretary of State for Scotland the duty of providing a hospital service which is comprehensive: that is, a service which is available to all, and whose purpose is to meet in full the needs of those who use it. It is therefore clear that hospitals, which in the past have relied so much on voluntary financial support for their day to day maintenance, will no longer be dependent on it in that way. It has however been made equally clear that there will still be need in the hospital service for local interest, local initiative and local support; and that those generous helpers who have in the past done so much to meet human needs, to foster interest and to stimulate progress in our hospitals will continue to find in them a field in which very valuable service can be rendered to the community.

3.—Until actual experience has been gained of the operation of the new service it is not possible to forecast precisely or exhaustively the kinds of voluntary help that will be most needed. But it is possible to give a general indication of ways in which interest and support will obviously be helpful and welcome. These may take the form of personal service or of financial help.

PERSONAL SERVICE

In Hospital Management

4.—The hospitals in the new service will be administered not from the centre but by local committees of management* composed of public-spirited men and women giving voluntary service. This is the first and most obviously necessary form of personal service—to take part in the running of the hospitals, whether as a member of a committee of management* of a hospital or group, or of a House Committee of a hospital within a group. In this way local knowledge and experience can contribute to the management of the new service no less than in the past, and the channel is still provided through which local people generally can take a personal interest in the hospital's affairs. It will still be of the greatest advantage to the hospitals, and to those actually charged with their management, if there is a large body of persons taking an interest in the work of each hospital, thus providing a stimulus to greater efficiency and a source of help in promoting the welfare of patients and staff.

In Hospital Work

5.—Particularly at the present time when shortages of staff are acute, there will be ample scope for voluntary service in helping to carry out some of the work of the hospital itself. Examples may be found in the work of the Ladies' Linen Guilds in the care and maintenance of Linen; or in the running of hospital libraries or hospital canteens. No form of voluntary support could be more beneficial than to give time and energy to practical tasks of this nature As Mr. John Edwards, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, has recently said: "I can see no diminution in the multifarious activities which are now undertaken by voluntary workers. It is vital that the spirit of voluntary work should be kept alive and that thereby the hospitals, which are now your hospitals, should remain your hospitals in the future."

In Welfare of Patients

6.—The patient in hospital will need just the same personal interest and sympathetic care under the new service as at the present time; and there will be many ways in which his physical and mental well-being can best be promoted by voluntary effort. The visiting of patients—particularly those who have no friends or relations in the immediate neighbourhood—and bringing them into touch with other contacts from the outside world, suggest themselves as fields in which there is considerable room for continued service. In other familiar ways the patient's stay in hospital can be cheered and progress encouraged by personal help.

* The term "committee of management" is used throughout to include: in England and Wales, the Boards of Governors of teaching hospitals and Hospital Management Committees of other hospitals; and in Scotland, the Boards of Management of either teaching or other hospitals.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT

7.—Although the full maintenance costs of the hospitals will be a public charge, provision has been expressly made by the National Health Service Acts for the new committees of management of hospitals to enjoy the use of "free monies" to be spent as they think fit on hospital purposes. The hospitals will have at their disposal income* from past endowments and they will be able to receive and hold future voluntary gifts.

None of these gifts (including annual subscriptions and donations) will be transferable to the State, nor used to meet the cost of the hospital's maintenance.† On the contrary, committees of managements will be free to apply them (subject to any express wish of the donor) in providing additional amenities for patients or staff, in undertaking experimental work of various kinds, or in supplementing in other appropriate ways the resources of the service.

It will be of the greatest benefit to committees of management, to patients and to staff alike if each hospital has at its disposal funds which can be used at discretion to meet the infinite variety of special circumstances and peculiar needs, which are bound to arise and which may not be easily or appropriately met through the expenditure of public funds.

Gifts to Individual Hospitals

8.—It may not be generally appreciated that, under the new administrative arrangements where hospitals may be grouped together for management purposes, it will still be possible for those who cherish an intimate association with a particular hospital to ensure that their financial support goes to benefit that hospital and no other.

Gifts or legacies may be accompanied by an express wish for their application for particular purposes or at individual hospitals, and in that case the committees of management receiving the gifts will hold them in trust and apply them accordingly. In this way there will be every encouragement to maintain close ties with the individual hospital, and to continue to support it.

From the Viewpoint of the Patient

9.—The first and most obvious object to which funds can be devoted is the promotion of the welfare of the patient. Though in a hospital everything is ultimately directed to the welfare of the individual patient, there are some things which are intimate and personal to the patient in his daily life in the hospital, with particular reference to his physical and mental comfort. Many such amenities, at one time regarded as "extras" or luxuries which were not strictly essential to the well-being of the patient, are now looked upon as necessary factors in his effective treatment, and as such will be provided as an essential part of the hospital service. There will however be additional comforts and amenities which the hospital for one reason or another is not in a position to provide from its budget, and which can be provided for by gifts of money. By the use of their "free" funds committees of management will be able to experiment and to develop new welfare activities, and thus constantly to assist in raising the standards of hospital care.

From the Viewpoint of the Staff

10.—A great proportion of the staff of any hospital is necessarily resident. A corporate community life has many advantages; but it has also defects, many of which can be remedied.

In this respect the requirements of different hospitals will vary very considerably, and the scope for public support and interest is perhaps widest in the case of the isolated hospital. The encouragement of clubs and facilities for recreation in the hospitals is a common need, and there is much that can be done from outside the hospitals to ensure that nursing and other resident staffs are not cut off from the rest of the community, but maintain social and cultural contacts with the life of their district.

From the Viewpoint of Research

11.—To many, research means the laboratory and scientific study of the problems of specific diseases like cancer or rheumatism. Hospital committees of management will be able to use their "free" funds in promoting medical research of all kinds; but the field of experiment in hospitals is by no means exclusively medical, and there will be scope for new work also in every sphere of hospital administration. The existence of "free monies" is an essential element in ensuring the exercise of individual initiative in research projects, and in reaching out for

* In the Act for England and Wales there is some differentiation between teaching and other hospitals; the Scottish Act also differs to some extent from the English Act.

† Where subscriptions or donations are made after the appointed day by Deed of Covenant for 7 years with the Hospital Management Committee (or, in the case of a teaching hospital, with the Board of Governors; or, in the case of a Scottish hospital, with the Board of Management), the provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1918, as adjusted by the subsequent Finance Acts affecting covenanted subscriptions will continue to apply, i.e. the hospital Committee Board will be able to claim refund of Income Tax. The reason is that although the hospitals as such will be State Institutions, the new Committees or Boards, by virtue of the N.H.S. Act 1946, are constituted Trustees with legal corporate entity and are empowered to receive, hold and administer charitable gifts in accordance with section 59 of the English Act (Section 58 of the Scottish Act).

progress along new lines. It will, for example, be possible to apply them in seeking new solutions to problems of departmental organisation such as catering services, testing new forms of records or new methods of filing and analysis, and in promoting in every way the continuous increase in knowledge of the most effective practice of the different branches of hospital management.

CONCLUSION

12.—These notes are issued after consultation with the Ministry of Health and the Department of Health for Scotland and will, it is hoped, prove sufficiently indicative to enable the governing bodies of teaching hospitals and all other hospitals to explain the position as it will be to their present supporters and so retain their interest and good will in the future when the National Health Service comes into operation.

Copies of this Memorandum may be obtained on application to the British Hospitals Association, 52 Green Street, London, W.1.

LOCAL ORGANISATIONS IN AID OF A PARTICULAR HOSPITAL OR GROUP OF HOSPITALS

THE LEAGUE OF FRIENDS

With the establishment of the National Health Service many people are wondering whether they need any longer continue their active interest in, and support of, hospitals now that these have been transferred to the State.

The British Hospitals Association, with the concurrence of the Departments of Health for Great Britain, has already issued a memorandum on personal support for hospitals (1). This memorandum makes it quite clear that there is just as wide a field in the new National Health Service for the continuance of voluntary service, personal interest and support as before, though modified in form to meet new conditions.

It is now well known that any donor, subscriber or testator, through the new Hospital Management Committees or Boards of Governors,* is able to make his gift to the particular hospital of his choice, secure in the knowledge that his gift will be used for the purposes which he directs whether these be discretionary or specific.

Many people, however, feel that the mere giving of money to a new Hospital Management Committee or Board of Governors would not in itself give them the same direct interest which they have hitherto had as Life Governors, members of Ladies' Committees or Linen Guilds, and in various other ways. They have been asking whether there is any way in which they can continue their old intimate association with hospital work, and whether they can after the "appointed day" re-form their Ladies' Associations, Linen Guilds and other bodies of supporters in aid of a particular hospital as in the past.

In answer to these very important questions, the British Hospitals Association has advocated the establishment of a voluntary body, such as a League of Friends, for each local hospital, or local group of hospitals (2). The scope of such a body may be limited to comprise only the activities of a Ladies' Association or can be expanded to include any activities for the general betterment of the hospital—ranging from the welfare of the patients and staff to the promotion of medical research and the fostering in all suitable ways of direct personal interest in the hospital's affairs.

The idea has received a very ready and widespread response, no doubt because a local League of Friends meets so many of the requirements. For example :—

It makes a rallying point through which erstwhile Governors, Life Governors, subscribers and other friends can continue their active interest and support for their hospital.

It provides a field for the recruitment of fresh supporters.

It has its own independent existence.

It has control of the moneys which it raises and so provides its members with a more direct interest in the hospital's affairs than would be possible if they merely gave a subscription to a Hospital Management Committee or Board of Governors.

It provides a body of persons prepared to assist the new Hospital Management Committee or Board of Governors by taking an active interest in the hospital's affairs.

It enables its subscribers to select the purposes for which their money is to be given to the hospital, thus promoting friendly consultation and relations between the League and those who manage the hospital.

It can form a most necessary link between the hospital and those whom the hospital serves.

It is not enough that hospitals should be relieved of financial anxiety as to their day-to-day maintenance by the nationalisation of the hospital services. The patient, whether he be treated in a State hospital or elsewhere, is still a person in need of sympathy and understanding in his distress of mind and body. That is the field in which personal service, in all its forms, has as wide opportunity in the new service as ever it had in the old.

Since a local League of Friends may be the means of attracting voluntary support in terms of considerable sums of money, it is most desirable that it should be properly and legally constituted. The British Hospitals Association, in consultation with Counsel, has therefore prepared a suggested constitution in draft as follows :—

* Boards of Management in Scotland.

(1) "Personal Support for Hospitals in the National Health Service" — reprinted on p. 49–51

(2) "Local Organisations and Funds in aid of a Particular Hospital or Group of Hospitals."

DRAFT CONSTITUTION

Objects and Rules

OF

THE LEAGUE OF FRIENDS OF THE HOSPITAL (or GROUP)

1. The name of the Society is "THE LEAGUE OF FRIENDS OF THE HOSPITAL" (or group).

PRELIMINARY

2. In these Rules—

(A) the expression "the League" means the Association constituted by these Rules;

(B) the expression "the Committee" means the Committee for the time being of the League as hereinafter constituted;

(C) the expression "the Secretary" means the Secretary for the time being of the League;

(D) the expression "these Rules" includes any amendment or alteration thereof for the time being in force.

OBJECTS

3. The objects of the League are as follows:—

(i) To mobilise, encourage, foster and maintain the interest of the public in the patients and the support of the work of the Hospital (or group) by means of voluntary service.

(ii) To maintain the relations and association which existed prior to July, 1948, between voluntary bodies and the hospital (or group); and to provide opportunity for such voluntary bodies to continue their activities for the benefit of the hospital (or group) in the National Health Service.

(iii) To provide funds for the purpose either of supplementing in such manner as the League thinks fit the resources of the hospital service, or of putting such funds or any part thereof at the disposal of the Hospital Management Committee/Board of Governors or House Committee of the Hospital (or group), to be applied at the discretion of the said Hospital Management Committee/Board of Governors or House Committee in supplementing such resources.

(iv) To recruit and assist in the recruitment of voluntary workers in and for the hospital (or group).

(v) To provide a link between the Hospital (or group) and the community which it serves.

(vi) To co-operate with all other bodies for the benefit of the hospital service.

(vii) To encourage inter-communication and co-operation with other Leagues of Friends of hospitals or with other similar bodies.

(viii) To do all such other things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects or any of them.

MEMBERSHIP

4. The subscribers to these Rules and such other persons as the Committee shall admit to membership shall be members of the League.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

5. There shall be an annual subscription of payable on the in each year.

OFFICERS AND COMMITTEE

6. (1) There shall be a Committee and the business of the League shall be conducted and managed by the Committee who may exercise all such powers of the League and do on behalf of the League all such acts as may be exercised and done by the League and as are not by these Rules required to be exercised or done by the League in General Meeting.

(2) The Committee shall consist of the Treasurer of the League and of not less than nor more than other persons. No person shall be a member of the Committee who is not a member of the League.

(3) The first members of the Committee are:—

(Treasurer).

(4) At the conclusion of the Annual General Meeting for the year and at the conclusion of every subsequent Annual General Meeting, one-third of the members for the time being of the Committee, or if their number is not three or a multiple of three, then the nearest to one-third, shall retire from office.

(5) The members of the Committee to retire in each year shall be those who have been longest in office since their last election, but as between persons who became members of the Committee on the same day those to retire shall (unless they otherwise agree among themselves) be determined by lot.

(6) Retiring members of the Committee shall be eligible for re-election.

(7) The Committee shall elect a Chairman to be Chairman of the meetings of the Committee, and at any meeting of the Committee at which the Chairman is not present they may elect one of their number to be Chairman of that meeting in his place.

(8) The Committee shall appoint a Treasurer, who shall be one of their number, and shall fix the period of his appointment. The Committee may at any time remove the Treasurer from office and appoint some other person in his place.

(9) The Committee may elect any member of the League to be a member of the Committee to fill any vacancy to hold office until the conclusion of the Annual General Meeting then next following.

(10) The Committee may meet together for the despatch of business, adjourn and otherwise regulate their meetings, as they think fit. Questions arising at any meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes. In the case of an equality of votes, the Chairman shall have a second or casting vote. Any member of the Committee may, and the Secretary on the requisition of a member shall, at any time summon a meeting of the Committee. At least four meetings of the Committee shall be held in each calendar year.

(11) The quorum necessary for the transaction of the business of the Committee may from time to time be fixed by the Committee, and unless so fixed shall be

(12) The continuing members of the Committee may act notwithstanding any vacancy in their body, but if and so long as their number is reduced below the continuing members of the Committee may act for the purpose of increasing the number of the members of the Committee or of summoning a General Meeting of the League and not for any other purpose.

(13) The Committee may delegate any of their powers to Sub-committees consisting of such member or members of their body as they think fit. Any Sub-committee so formed shall in the exercise of the powers so delegated conform to any regulation that may be imposed on it by the Committee.

(14) The Sub-committee may elect a Chairman of its meetings and the provisions of Sub-rule (10) of this Rule (except as to the number of meetings) inclusive shall apply mutatis mutandis to any Sub-committee.

(15) All acts done by any meeting of the Committee or of any Sub-committee or by any person acting as a member of the Committee or of any Sub-committee shall, notwithstanding that it be afterwards discovered that there was some defect in the appointment of any such person, be valid as if such person had been duly appointed.

(16) The Committee shall appoint a Secretary who may (but need not) be a member of the Committee and shall fix the period of his appointment. The Committee may at any time remove the Secretary from office and appoint some other person in his place.

GENERAL MEETINGS

7. (1) An Annual General Meeting of the League shall be held in each calendar year and at a date not later than fifteen months after the last Annual General Meeting. The first Annual General Meeting shall be held in 19 . The Chairman of the meeting shall be the Chairman of the Committee or in his absence then the members present shall elect a Chairman from amongst themselves.

(2) The Committee may at any time call an Extraordinary General Meeting and must do so if so requested in writing by not less than members of the League.

(3) The Secretary shall give at least clear days' notice in writing of General Meetings and the purpose thereof to all members entitled to receive notices of meetings.

(4) At a General Meeting each member shall have one vote. Voting shall be by showing of hands only unless a ballot is demanded by not less than members present.

(5) The Chairman's direction as to how a ballot is to be taken, his declaration as to the result of any voting and his decision on any question of procedure or point of order at a General Meeting shall be considered final. In the event of an equal vote the Chairman shall have a casting vote.

(6) No vote may be cast by proxy.

(7) No business shall be transacted at any General Meeting of the League unless a quorum of members is present at the time when the meeting proceeds to business. members personally present shall be a quorum. If within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting a quorum is not present the meeting, if convened upon the requisition of members, shall be dissolved ; in any other case it shall stand adjourned to the same day the next week, at the same time and place ; and if at the adjourned meeting a quorum is not present within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting the members present shall be a quorum.

ACCOUNTS

8. There shall be prepared annually and laid before the League in General Meeting an audited statement of accounts and a report of the League's activities.

CESSATION OF MEMBERSHIP

9. If the subscription of any member shall be in arrear and unpaid for a period exceeding eleven calendar months the Treasurer or Secretary shall give him notice in writing that unless he pays his arrears within fourteen days he will be deemed to have resigned ; and if such member shall not within fourteen days after service of such notice have paid his arrears he shall be deemed to have resigned.

NOTICES

10. If a member has given to the Secretary an address within the British Isles for the giving of notices to him (and not otherwise) he shall be entitled to receive notices of all meetings of the League. The notice may be given by the League to any member either by delivering it by hand to him or to his said address or by sending it by post to him to such address. Where a notice is sent by post service of the notice shall be deemed to be effected by properly addressing, prepaying and posting the letter containing the notice, and to have been effected, in the case of the notice of a meeting, at the expiration of twenty-four hours after the letter containing the notice is posted, and in any other case at the time at which the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post.

PROPERTY

11. (1) The moneys and property of the League not immediately required for the purposes of the League may be held by or vested in such person or persons as the Committee may from time to time determine, and the Committee may appoint two or more persons, whether members of the League or not, to hold any such moneys or property upon trust for the League.

(2) Cheques drawn on behalf of the League shall be signed by such person or persons as the Committee may from time to time direct.

REMUNERATION

12. All officers shall be honorary save that the Committee, when the Secretary is not a member of the Committee, may pay him such remuneration as they think fit. The Committee may appoint and employ such assistant secretaries or clerks as they may think fit. They shall appoint [and may pay proper remuneration to] Auditors.

13. The League may by a majority of not less than two-thirds of the members present at an Annual General Meeting or Extraordinary General Meeting alter, add to or delete all or any of the objects of the League and alter the rules and constitution, provided that notice of intention to propose such alteration, addition or deletion and the details thereof are served upon each member with the notice required to be given by Rule 7 (3) hereof, and provided also that no alteration in the objects of the League shall be made which would authorise the application of the property of the League for objects which are not charitable.

INFORMALITIES

14. No action or decision of the Committee or of any meeting of the League shall be invalidated by reason only of informality or neglect in any service of notices or in any matter or matters of procedure, unless in the opinion of the Committee such informality or neglect has resulted or may result in a situation which is unjust.

NOTE

This suggested constitution is drafted to meet the requirements in the case of a large organisation, since it is always possible to draft a constitution appropriate to a smaller body by deleting what is not deemed necessary.

The statement of objects in the draft is deliberately phrased in broad terms so as not unduly to temper the activities of the League or to require constant revision of the constitution to enable it to undertake a particular activity. Here again, however, if one or two specific or simple objects are required, it is possible to substitute them for the longer list. Even where this is done it is considered desirable that there should be some statement in the objects which does not completely limit the activities of the Society to one special object, e.g., an amenities and welfare fund for patients and staff.

Section 8.	List of Disclaimed Hospitals in England and Wales	133–134

Notes :

1. The future disposition of some hospitals in England and Wales is still undecided and the groupings are therefore in some measure provisional.
   Details of beddage are not available in some cases and all are subject to revision. The information given is the latest obtainable from the Ministry of Health.

2. The hospitals in each Regional Board Area are grouped under the Hospital Management Committee (Board of Management in Scotland) appointed to control and manage the group. The name, address and telephone number of the Secretary of each Committee/Board are shown where available.

3. The Sectional Directory column denotes an entry in the appropriate sectional directory containing detailed information about the individual hospital.

CORRECTIONS TO REGIONAL DIRECTORIES

WILLIAM LEA & CO., LTD., LONDON.

CORRECTIONS TO REGIONAL DIRECTORIES

In order that the Regional Directory Section of the Hospitals Year Book should be as up to date as possible, the Regional Boards have kindly notified the Editor of revisions that should now be made to the information earlier supplied by the Ministry of Health and printed on pages 69 to 130. Many of these changes are in relatively unimportant details, but to have incorporated them all in the list of corrections would have involved re-printing the whole Section. Only the major corrections are therefore noted hereunder.

The figures of available beds now being given by Regional Boards vary substantially in some cases from those originally furnished by the Ministry of Health. As it is clear that some Boards are still reviewing the number of beds available in the hospitals within their Regions, it has been decided not to alter the figures shown on pages 69 to 130. These figures should therefore be regarded as provisional and subject to correction later.

EDITOR.

DISTRICT NURSING

By MISS A. McMASTER
General Secretary, Queen's Institute of District Nursing

Before the coming into force of the National Health Service Act 1946, patients who required skilled nursing in their own homes and who were unable to provide themselves with a private nurse were attended by district nurses employed by voluntary County or District Nursing Associations. The first District Nursing Association was founded in Liverpool in 1859 and was quickly followed by the formation of other Associations in various parts of the country. In 1887 Queen Victoria devoted the greater part of the offering from the women of Britain on the occasion of her Jubilee to the furtherance of district nursing, thus making possible the foundation of the Queen's Institute of District Nursing, whose objects since that date have been to provide special training in district nursing for State Registered Nurses and to lay down and maintain standards of service after training.

At the beginning of 1948 there were affiliated to the Queen's Institute in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland 2,716 County and District Nursing Associations employing 8,924 District Nurses and Midwives, of which 4,760 were Queen's Nurses. The Associations have been supported partly by donations and endowments, but to a much greater extent by contributory schemes of a penny a week or more. This service, which spread so rapidly throughout the United Kingdom and Eire, has been one of the most successful examples of voluntary effort organised on a democratic basis, and has led to the foundation of a home nursing service on similar lines in many other countries.

On July 5th, under the National Health Service Act, it became the responsibility of each Local Health Authority to ensure that, amongst other health services, a home nursing service was provided in its area. The Act empowered the Local Health Authority to provide this service either by employing nurses itself, and thus administering a direct service, or by using the voluntary organizations as agents for this purpose.

Within a month of the coming into force of the Act statistics show that 50 per cent of the Local Health Authorities have decided to employ the nurses directly, while the other 50 per cent have arranged to make use of the voluntary County or County Borough Nursing Associations on an agency basis.

Negotiations between the County Councils Association, the Association of Municipal Corporations and the Queen's Institute have led to a satisfactory arrangement whereby Local Health Authorities providing a direct service may enter into membership of the Queen's Institute, an arrangement which will enable the Queen's Nurses employed to retain their status as Queen's Nurses and the link with the Institute to be continued.

Certain District Nursing Associations have small Maternity units attached, where from 10 to 25 patients can be admitted and where, in conjunction with the domiciliary midwifery undertaken by the Association, Pupil Midwives are trained for the C.M.B. Part II Examination. Under the National Health Service Act such Maternity units are transferable to the Regional Hospital Boards. The appropriate Hospital Management Committee has, in several instances, affiliated to, or entered into membership of, the Queen's Institute in respect of the Queen's Nurses concerned.

At the present time training in district nursing is provided by two organizations only—the Queen's Institute, which trains more than 600 Queen's Nurses annually in its affiliated Training Homes in various parts of the country, and the Ranyard Mission, which trains from 8-10 nurses a year in London. What revised arrangements may ultimately be made for the training of district nurses must await the further consideration of the Working Party Report on the Recruitment and Training of Nurses, but until such consideration makes any change necessary, the Ministry of Health has asked the Institute to continue with its present arrangements for the training of State Registered Nurses as District Nurses.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Object of Survey.

The object of this Survey is the presentation of the position of the Hospitals in Great Britain and Ireland with reference to :

(a) The facilities available for treatment and the extent to which they are utilised.

(b) The annual cost involved and the several sources from which the funds are derived.

Omission from the tables of certain Hospitals.

The figures of hospitals which after full notice have failed to comply with certain minimum requirements in uniform accounting, do not appear in these Tables. These requirements are :

(a) The adoption of the Calendar Year for the Annual Accounts.

(b) The presentation of the Accounts on the lines laid down in the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts, or (temporarily) in a form admitting of adjustment to comply with it.

Adjustments to figures.

An attempt has been made to present the figures of all hospitals upon the basis of the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts. Slight divergences from the figures published in the Annual Reports of a few hospitals will consequently be found.

Definition of London Area.

For the purposes of the Statistical Tables and the Directory of Voluntary Hospitals, London is regarded as the area covered by King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, viz., the same as the Metropolitan and City of London Police Districts. This area included portions of the counties of Essex, Hertfordshire, Kent, Middlesex and Surrey in addition to the whole of the County of London. Similarly, all hospitals under the control of the London County Council are grouped together, whether they are situated in the County of London or not.

" Available " beds of London Hospitals.

The figures of " available " beds of the London Hospitals are the average daily bed complement during the year after deducting beds temporarily closed for Rebuilding Extensions, Repairs, or other causes.

Thanks.

The Editor desires to express thanks to King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, to the Chairmen and Officers of the Voluntary Hospitals and to the Public Authorities who have kindly supplied information.

NATIONAL RADIUM COMMISSION

As the result of the introduction of the National Health Service, the provision for cancer treatment foreshadowed in the Cancer Act, 1938, will as a matter for convenience be merged in the arrangements for the National Health Service as a whole.

The National Radium Commission has ceased its function, which will in part be undertaken by a new Cancer Committee.

In the meantime as a matter of convenience the list of centres recognised by the Commission is appended—as in previous years—for reference.

It will be observed that, with one exception, the list contains no reference to London, which is due to the fact by arrangement with the National Radium Commission, the King Edward's Hospital Fund for London has in the past allocated radium to those Hospitals.

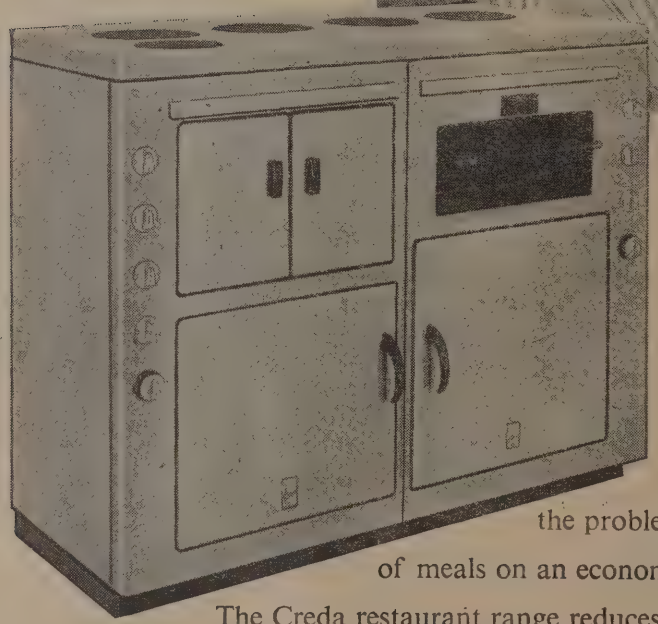
THE NEW 'TEN-SIXTY' ECONOMY RANGE



60 MEALS ONE DAY, 10 THE NEXT ..... the new Creda restaurant range, (Cat. No. H C 2898) especially designed for small hotels, restaurants, canteens, cafes, apartment houses, etc., solves the problem of cooking a fluctuating number of meals on an economical basis

The Creda restaurant range reduces fuel consumption costs by incorporating in a single adaptable, economical unit—two ovens (one large, the other small, both thermostatically controlled), a separate grill, spacious hotcupboard with its own heating element to keep food or plates warm, five hotplates for boiling and simmering, a carefully planned interior layout and a clean modern projection-free exterior. Write to us for further details, we are always glad to advise on any catering problem

A TEACHING HOSPITAL

One of the largest and most modern Maternity Hospitals in the world, with six acres of modern buildings, which were opened in 1940 in Goldhawk Road, Hammersmith, W.6.

An average number of 4,500 Patients are delivered annually in the hospital and in their homes. In addition to the routine work of the hospital, with its Ante-Natal, Post-Natal and Infant Welfare Clinics, there is a human milk bureau, and facilities for research are provided in the Radiological Department, the Pediatric Department, and the Bernhard Baron Memorial Research Laboratories.

The Hospital provides training for Pupil Midwives, and facilities are provided for the teaching of Post-graduates under the auspices of the recently formed Institute of Obstetrics and Gynæcology of the British Postgraduate Medical Federation.

SEYMOUR LESLIE, Secretary.

What Constitutes an Ideal Charitable Bequest?

1. IT MUST BE TO A SOCIETY WHOSE PURPOSE IS UNCHANGING.
   The one purpose of the Bible Society is to circulate Scriptures without note or comment.
2. IT MUST BE TO A SOCIETY WHOSE RECORD IS UNIMPEACHABLE.
   The Bible Society has sent out about 574,000,000 copies of the Scriptures since its foundation in 1804.
3. IT MUST BE TO A SOCIETY WHOSE SCOPE IS SUFFICIENTLY FAR REACHING.
   The Bible Society broadcasts the Scriptures in 778 languages to every part of the world.
4. IT MUST BE TO A SOCIETY WHOSE ACTIVITIES CAN NEVER BECOME UNNECESSARY.
   As long as humanity endures it will need the Scriptures, and the Bible Society is pledged to continue its labours for all time.

HOSPITAL LAW NOTES

By SIR WILLIAM BAYNES, M.A., LL.M.
of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law,
Hon. Legal Adviser to The British Hospitals Association

The book deals with practically every legal or semi-legal point on which Secretaries of Hospitals have asked for information during several years past, and there is reason to hope that it may contain the answers to most of the legal problems that Secretaries ordinarily meet with in practice. The subjects are arranged alphabetically and fully indexed to facilitate reference.

Press References

"This book should be one of the working tools of any Hospital administrator, whether member of a committee or executive officer."—The Times.

"They cover almost every conceivable legal or semi-legal difficulty which a hospital secretary is likely to encounter. . . . The notes on road accident patients, on the recovery of income-tax under subscribers' seven-year covenants, and on liability for negligence as good instances of the clear and concise help which Mr. Baynes offers to his readers. The secretaries of hospitals and similar institutions who buy this little book will get good value."—The Lancet.

"It is difficult not to use extravagant superlatives in expressing one's admiration of this book. . . . No hospital secretary should be without it, and it should be worth almost its weight in Treasury Notes to proprietors of private hospitals and nursing homes, though of course it does not deal with the legal problems which are peculiar to their status."
British Medical Journal.

"This is a book which has long been needed. We desire to congratulate Mr. Baynes on the excellence of these notes which are characterized by accuracy throughout. They show a practical acquaintance with the law on the subjects dealt with, and no doubt this book will soon be in great demand. It certainly ought to have a long and useful career before it. Meantime it has our warmest recommendations."—The Medical Times.

"Beneath its unassuming title, this book hides a mine of information for the hospital officer. One is struck by the simplicity of its language and by the avoidance of legal phraseology whenever possible. . . . The book should also be of value to any member of the legal profession whose practice bring him into contact with hospitals."—The Hospital.

"Of very great practical value to everyone connected with hospitals or with nursing and convalescent homes or similar institutions. It is a book which can be thoroughly recommended to anyone who is interested in the legal side of hospital work and management. Its accuracy can be vouched for."
The Nursing Times.
